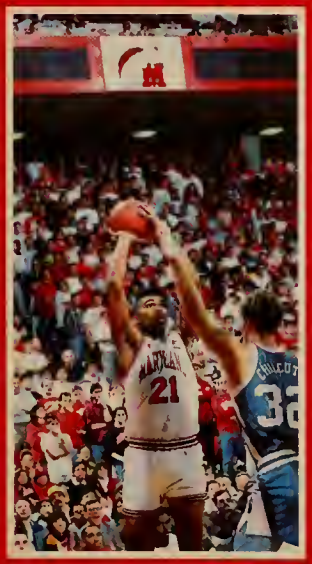
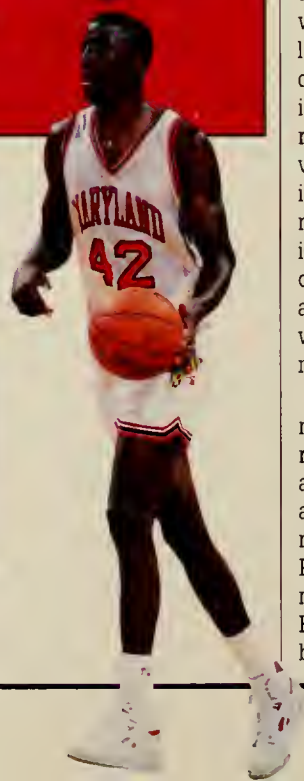
MARYLAND BASKETBALL 91-92



Making The Point: All-America candidate Walt Williams



MAKING THE POINT

For two seasons Walt Williams has made The Point.

The Point: it is possible for a 6-8 forward to play and excel at point guard. After less than two seasons at the point, he now is considered among the best playmakers in the country.

The Point: there is a place for honoring commitments and obligations in today's sports world. Despite the opportunities, and even suggestions by many, that he transfer or leave school for the NBA, Williams has made it a point to stay at Maryland through his senior season.

In 1991-92, Williams plans to Make The Point that he is a legitimate All-America candidate, and likely Lottery pick in next year's NBA Draft. He certainly made the point this summer when he was one of only 12 U.S. amateurs to earn a spot on the USA Pan American Team. He started every game for the bronze medal-winning Americans, averaging 10.9 points and leading the team in steals.

At 6-8 and a beefed-up 219 pounds, Williams may be the biggest, most versatile point guard in the country. He can stick the outside jumper, has superior quickness to almost all players his size, and can make the difficult pass appear routine.

Because of the magical things he seemingly does with the ball, his teammates early on dubbed him "The Wizard." As the Terps take to the road this season from New York to Florida and west to Arizona, keep an eye on the "Wiz" as he continues to "Point" toward becoming the first Maryland All-American since 1986.

WELCOME TO MARYLAND

Before Your Visit

Game credentials are issued through the sports information office. Ivan Meltzer will coordinate the distribution of credentials and he asks that requests be made in writing on company letterhead at least four days prior to the game. It is perfectly acceptable to relay a credential request via fax. Our fax number is (301) 314-9094. When a request is received well in advance, the credential and an appropriate parking pass will be mailed to the media representative.

Photographers, too, need to make their requests for credentials at least four days in advance. Again, faxed requests are fine. Photographers should note that the Cole Field House lights are color balanced for daylight. An exposure setting of /250 at f2.8 has been found to work well with ASA 400 film and normal processing. On occasion, strobe lights can be installed in Cole; however, arrangements must be made with Ivan at least two weeks in advance of the game and space is available on a first come, first served basis.

Telephone lines can be ordered for courtside seats by contacting Karen Donaldson at C&P Telephone Company at (301) 852-9900. After receiving your C&P order number, contact Dan Giffin of the athletic department facilities office at (301) 314-7126 and he will arrange to have your line installed at your seat location. Telephones must be ordered at least two weeks in advance.

General Interview Policy

Interviews with student-athletes must be arranged through the sports information office. Either Ivan, Joe Blair or Herb Hartnett will be happy to set up one-on-one interviews. They do request, however, 24 hours advance notice to insure the student-athlete's availability. This one-day notice policy also holds for brief pre-practice interviews. The student-athletes' class schedules vary daily and often particular individuals are not available prior to practice. In those instances, student-athletes will be made available after practice. Student-athletes will return phone calls when requested. Their home phone numbers will not be distributed. Interviews will not be arranged through the basketball office.

Interviews with Coach Gary Williams also should be arranged in advance through the sports information office. Coach Williams typically returns phone calls in the early afternoon hours. Coach will make himself available for brief interviews on the court each day prior to practice.

Coach Williams also is available each Tuesday, beginning December 31, from 11:40 - 11:50 a.m. as part of the ACC Coaches' Teleconference. Members of the media wishing to join the teleconference should dial (703) 276-4310.

Practices are open to the media with few exceptions. The team generally practices from 3 to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. Weekend practice schedules vary and if media representatives wish to come out on weekends they should contact the sports information office ahead of time. Still and electronic photographers are welcome provided they do not interfere with practice.

Game Day

Press Parking will return to the concourse of Byrd Stadium this season now that the renovation of the stadium is complete. Access to the concourse is through the North Gate on the opposite side of the stadium from the press box. Access is via pass only.

Press credentials that were not mailed are left at will call at the press entrance located at the back door of Cole Field House inside the service parking area on Stadium Drive.

There is a working press room one level above the court in the refurbished press lounge. Pre-game and halftime food and beverage service is available in the lounge, as are all pre-game notes, media guides and auxiliary media information.

Press seating is located along the west sideline of the court. Photographers' floor access is governed by Atlantic Coast Conference policy. Photographers, both still and electronic, must shoot from the baselines at the Northwest (Maryland team bench end/press row side) and Southeast corners of the court. When the visiting team does not travel with cheerleaders, the Southwest side will be open to photographers as well. Please note that only game photographers — no assistants, producers, runners, etc. — will have access to the photography areas.

Post-game coaches interviews are held in the cozy basketball film room, adjacent to the Maryland lockerroom. Coaches from both competing teams are brought to the interview area. Maryland's Coach Williams will be brought to the interview area immediately after he delivers a few brief remarks to his team, and he will be followed by the opponent's coach. The Maryland lockerroom is open to all credentialed media for a brief period immediately after Coach Williams concludes his comments to the media. The visiting team's lockerroom access policy is determined by officials of that school.

Statistics packets, including running play-by-play, first half and final boxscores and post-game coaches quotes are compiled following every Maryland game and made available to the media both at press row and in the media lounge.

The Maryland Men's Basketball Media Guide was written and edited by Ivan Meltzer. Editorial assistance and recommendations provided by the entire sports information staff — Herb Hartnett, joe f. blair, Chuck Walsh and Dee Stough. Special thanks to the sports information student staff — Sean Manion, Tim Dennis, Amy Farnum, David Kushner and Scott Peyser — who always took time work on sections of this project, regardless of pressing class commitments. Layout and design by Dave Pfieffer of Presstar Printing, Inc., who after four years of work with the athletic department still manages to impress and amaze with every project. The media guide was printed at Colonial Lithograph in Attleboro, Mass., whose owner Charlie Guillette continues to show more patience with the SID office than it rightfully deserves. Special thanks also to Cathy La Salandra, Dave Redding, Michelle Pereira, Craig Jordan, Roger Boucher and Paul Mendes of Colonial Litho. The sports information office is indebted to several photographers whose work appears in this publication — Katie Zernhelt, Edwin Mahan, Bruce Schwartzman, Lars Gelfan, Larry Crouse, Mitchell Layton, Jeff Fishbein, Brian Lewis, Phil Masturzo, and Dave Yoblick. As always, the sports information office is indebted to the University's Paula Mandelman for her assistance.

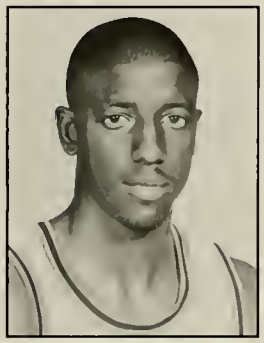
ALL-AMERICA CANDIDATE WALT WILLIAMS



#42
Senior, Guard
6-8, 219
Temple Hills, Maryland

At Maryland — He may be the most versatile player in the country, an attribute that makes him a certain All-America candidate ... that versatility earned him a starting spot for the United States National Team during this summer's Pan American Games in Havana ... he can play any position on the floor, but has become one of the country's most intriguing players because of his ability at the point ... he handles the ball with an effortless skill, has an explosive first step to the basket and causes opponents' guards all sorts of defensive trouble ... he distributes the ball adeptly and is continually finding more range on his jumper ... at the Pan Am Games, he averaged 10.9 points a game and led the USA in scoring in two games ... he also led the team in steals with 17, and dished for 10 assists in the seven-game tournament ... As a Junior — He played in 17 games, starting 14 ... an all-star season was cut short after 14 games when he fractured his left fibula in a game against Duke and was lost for six weeks (11 games) ... when he was in the line-up, however, he was spectacular ... he scored in double figures 14 times, hitting for 20 points or more 10 times and 30 points twice ... his end of the year statistics line read: 18.7 ppg, 5.1 rpg, 5.4 apg, 1.5 spg ... he electrified the Madison Square Garden crowd at the 1990 ECAC Holiday Festival in December by averaging 28 points, eight rebounds and 5.5 assists in two games, leading Maryland to the title ... he was the unanimous choice for Tournament Most Valuable Player ... in the semifinals against Rutgers, he scored a tournament-best 30 points, which included a 60-foot, three-point heave that beat the halftime buzzer ... he led the team in scoring 11 times and in rebounding five times ... he dished for seven or more assists in a game seven times, including a career-high 11 at N.C. State in the next to last game of the year ... he returned from his injury in dramatic fashion late in the season against Wake Forest ... with 13:32 to play against the Deacons and Maryland down by four, Williams entered the game to the frenzied applause of a sold-out Cole Field House ... less than a minute later, he scored a layup to tie the game, then had a huge three-pointer with the shot clock running out to ice the win ... he finished the game with seven points and a rebound ... two games later, in the season finale against Virginia, he led the team in scoring with 21 points as Maryland took an upset, 78-74 overtime win at Charlottesville ... As a Sophomore — He played in all 33 games, starting 31 ... he scored in double figures in 23 games, including the last five consecutive games of the season ... but he did so much more than just score for the Terps ... he ranked among the ACC's top 20 individuals in five statistical categories — free throw percentage (7th), steals (6th), assists (8th), blocks (10th) and scoring (20th) ... he was the only ACC player to rank in the league's top 10 in assists, steals and blocks ... he shot 80 percent from the floor (8 of 10) against North Carolina, 70 percent (7 of 10) against Georgia Tech and shot 60 percent or better from the field eight times ... he had one of his best games as a collegian against North Carolina in Cole Field House (Jan. 10, 1990), when he scored a career-high 33 points and dished for a then-career-best nine assists ... his shooting that night was phenomenal as he went 8 of 10 from the floor, 4 of 4 from three-point, and 13 of 14 from the line ... he also set his career-high for rebounds during the season, with 11 against Clemson ... overall, he led the team in scoring four times and in rebounding twice ... As a Freshman — He played in 26 games, starting 12 and averaged 7.3 points and 3.5 rebounds a game — both fourth best on the team ... as a starter, he upped those averages to 9.7 points and 4.9 boards ... he scored in double figures eight times, including the first five games in which he was a starter ... he saw playing time at both guard and both forward positions during the year ... he missed three games in the middle of the season with a broken finger ... High School — Played at nearby Crossland High School ... he averaged 22

Quoting Coach Williams

"Walt has a chance to be one of the all-time great Maryland players, and that's keeping some impressive comnpany. His making the Pan American Team this summer, I think, proved to a lot of people nationally what we've known around here for a while — Walt is one of the country's best college players."

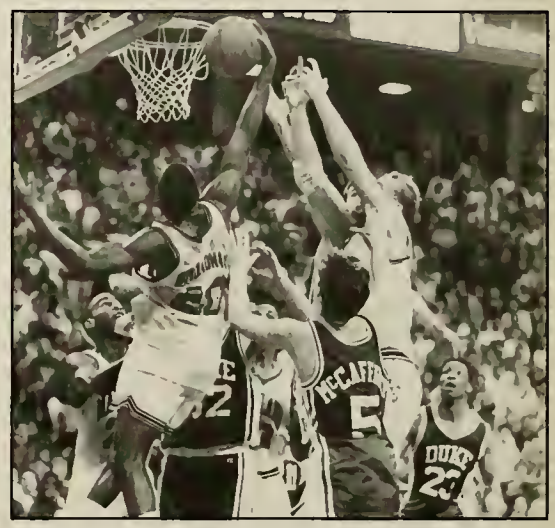
#40
Senior, Forward
6-3, 208
Forestville, Maryland

At Maryland — Without question one of the best defensive players in the Atlantic Coast Conference ... his is the classic tale of walk-on-turned-starter-turned-star ... he will serve this season as a team co-captain ... he was an intergal part of the Terps starting line-up last season after Walt Williams' injury, and he is expected to be a key starter this season ... he is the Terps designated defensive stopper and as such has defended just about every position on the floor ... his improvement in every facet of his game has been phenomenol over the last few seasons ... his work habits and attitude are among the best on the team ... his tenaciousness on defense and rebounding prowess makes him a coaches' favorite ... he is a tremendous position rebounder, who consistently pulls down his share of boards despite being at a severe height disadvantage against most ACC forwards ... As a Junior — He played in 28 games, starting 19 ... he averaged 7.6 points, 3.8 rebounds, 2.3 assists and 1.3 steals a game ... against ACC teams, he averaged 9.6 points ... those numbers were put up despite only averaging 5.1 shots a game ... he led the team in field goal percentage at 54.2 percent, which would have given him the fourth best total in the ACC had he met the minimum number of attempts ... though not known as a scorer — he had scored in double figures just three times in his first two seasons — he scored in double digits seven times, including six of the final eight games of the season ... in his 19 games as a starter, he nearly averaged double figures at 9.4 points a game ... he led the team in scoring with 18 points at Duke ... he set his career high with 24 against N.C. State ... twice during the season he grabbed a career-best nine rebounds and he had a career best eight assists in his big game against the Wolfpack ... despite his offensive numbers, Broadnax's reputation still comes from his awesome defensive performances ... among the best of last season: during his 24-point outing against N.C. State, he went head-to-head with the



ACC's top scorer, Rodney Monroe, and held the State star to just two second half field goals as Maryland came from behind in the second half; he forced Kenny Anderson into a six for 20 shooting (one of five from three point) performance in a matchup in Atlanta; he matched up against Wake Forest forward/center Anthony Tucker and held the Deacon star to six points and nine boards, while Broadnax scored 14 points and grabbed nine boards himself ... As a Sophomore — He played in all 33 games, starting two, and averaged 3.5 points and 2.1 rebounds a game ... he was the team's all-important sixth man ... he started the season as a walk-on, but on Jan. 16, 1990 (the night before Maryland played at Virginia) he was granted a scholarship ... against the Cavaliers in that game, he scored the bucket to tie the game with under three minutes to play and then in the final seconds tied up a loose ball that sealed the Terps' win ... his .551 field goal percentage was tops among the Terps' regulars and he had 16 games in which he shot 50 percent or better from the floor ... he scored in double figures three times, including an 11-point

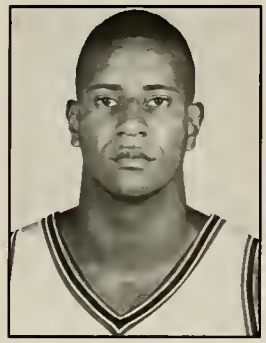
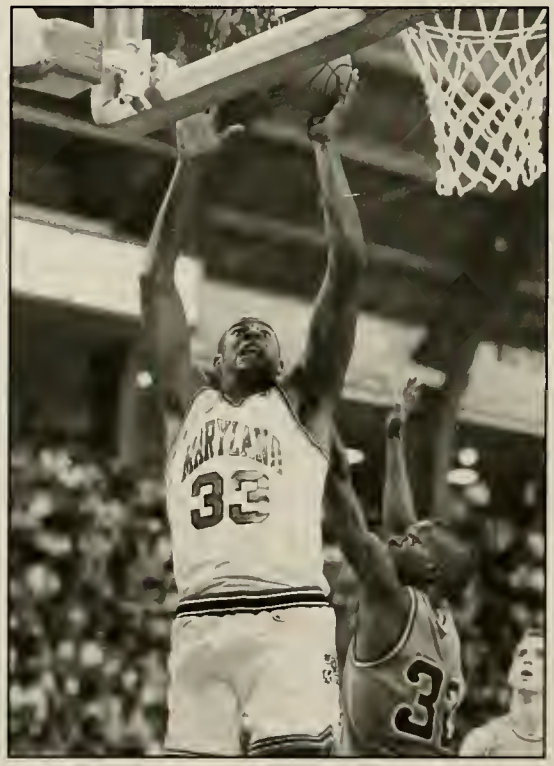
"It's nice to see a player rewarded for his efforts. Vince has gone from being practically a non-factor (as a freshman) to the point where he is now a threat in the ACC. The fact that he was voted a co-captain shows the players are respectful of his development."

Evers

EVERS BURNS



#33
Junior
Forward/Center
6-8, 247
Baltimore, Maryland



At Maryland — As he enters his third season in the program, Burns is a strong candidate for the starting center spot this season ... he is expected to vie with junior newcomer Chris Kerwin for the pivot position ... Burns also will see some action this year at power forward ... he runs the floor well and has good hands for his size ... a lefty, he also has an accurate shooting touch from 15 feet-in ... he will need to score his share of points this year, but his biggest contribution to the Terps will come if his low-post defense improves as he will be expected to make up for the graduation of defensive wiz Cedric Lewis ... now entering his upperclassman years, he will need to show overall consistency in his game — at both ends of the floor ... he broke his elbow in a pick-up during the fall and missed the first week of practice ... As a Sophomore — Played in all 28 games, starting two ... he averaged 7.7 points and 3.7 rebounds, the sixth best averages on the team ... he shot 43.7 percent from the field and 56.8 percent from the line ... his 26 steals on the year was the fourth best total on the team ... his averages dropped slightly in ACC games (6.6 ppg and 2.9 rpg) and it will be imperative that he be consistent over the course of the season this year for Maryland to be effective ... he scored in double figures seven times, including a season-high 16 point effort in Maryland's ECAC Holiday Festival win over Rutgers ... his 14-point, eight-rebound effort against Georgia Tech was a key reason for the Terps upset win ... the eight boards against Tech led the team and he also had team-high rebounding honors against UMBC with eight ... As a Freshman — Saw the most playing time of any freshman during the 1989-90 campaign ... he played in 28 games and averaged 4.3 points and 2.7 rebounds a game ... both of those averages were sixth best on the team ... he shot .543 from the field and was perfect from three-point distance (1-1) ... he worked hard at both ends of the floor, grabbing 31 offensive rebounds and 44 defensive ... High School — Played at Woodlawn

High School ... he was a two-sport prep star, excelling as a basketball forward/center and a football tight end ... as a senior in 1988-89, he led WHS to a 20-3 record and a berth in the state tournament semifinals ... during his sophomore and junior seasons, Woodlawn advanced to the regional semifinals ... as a senior, he averaged 16 points, 8.5 rebounds and three blocks per game, earning all-Baltimore County and all-Metropolitan by the Baltimore Sun and honorable mention All-America honors ... he shot 52 percent from the field and 86 percent from the line ... while his basketball numbers were impressive, his football totals were even more outstanding ... he played both ways for the Woodlawn football team, as a tight end and defensive end ... on offense, he had 29 receptions for 15 touchdowns and averaged just over 20 yards per catch as a senior ... those numbers earned him football prep All-America honors and had him coveted by a number of powerhouse college football programs ... not surprisingly, he was Woodlawn's Outstanding Male Athlete ... Personal — Born August 24, 1971 ... his full name is Evers Allen Burns ... currently he is following a physical education curriculum ... Evers father, Emmett, is the National Life Membership Director of the NAACP in Baltimore ... his older brother, Emmett, Jr., played fullback at Temple and his brother, Engel, attends Howard University.

#12
Senior, Guard
5-10, 177
Atchison, Kansas

At Maryland — Enters his second season in the Maryland backcourt with experience at both the point and the off guard positions ... he underwent surgery on his right shoulder during the spring and will be 100 percent by the start of fall practice ... he has a strong grasp of the offensive scheme and distributes the ball extremely well when at the point ... his outside shot is accurate from three-point distance ... he has an excellent first step, which makes him a threat to penetrate ... he is a fundamentally-sound player, having grown up with the game, his father being a high school coach ... came to Maryland after two seasons at Dodge City Community College ... As a Junior — Played in 26 games for the Terps ... he averaged 3.4 points, 1.1 rebounds and 1.3 assists a game, while shooting 39.2 percent from the field (26.7 percent from three-point) and 62.9 percent from the line ... his 34 assists on the year was the fifth-best total on the team ... he played the entire season with an injured shoulder that would routinely dislocate during play ... his best scoring game was a 10-point effort in Maryland's upset win over Georgia Tech ... he scored eight points on three other occasions ... his best overall game was an eight-point, two-rebound, five-assist showing at home against Boston University ... At Dodge City CC — He was a two-year starter at DCCC, playing both the point and the off guard ... he averaged 18 points a game as a sophomore and 15 a game as a freshman to lead the team both seasons ... as a sophomore, he also averaged four rebounds, four assists and two steals a game, and shot 45 percent from the field, 41 percent from three-point range and 81 percent from the free throw line ... he was selected to the Jayhawk East-West All-Star Game, which includes only the top 20 JC players in the state ... He also was a Jayhawk West All-Conference selection ... he always seemed to have his best games against Dodge City's biggest rival, Garden City CC, scoring more than 30 points a game in each of the three contests between the two teams his sophomore season ... he played at DCCC for Coach Brad Underwood ... High School — Played at Atchison High School ... played for his father, Chic, who this year is beginning his 19th season as head coach at Atchison ... he led the team to the state championship as a sophomore and senior and to the championship game as a junior ... in fact, in Downing's three years of varsity ball, Atchison had a combined record of 68-6, including 24-1 his senior year ... he was the team's leading scorer as a junior and senior, averaging 20 and 19 points per game, respectively ... Personal — Born January 15, 1970 ... he is the oldest of five children ... he goes by his nickname, "Cougar" ... he is majoring in urban studies, but is interested in getting involved in physical therapy after graduation.

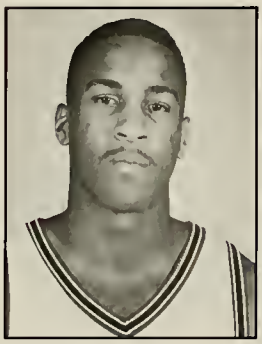
KEVIN McLINTON



#22
Junior, Guard
6-3, 208
Silver Spring, Maryland

At Maryland — A wonderful natural athlete who enters this season as an expected starter in the backcourt ... a two-sport high school star — basketball and football — he might be the best overall athlete on the team ... he has excellent quickness and jumping ability, and an extremely solid frame, all which allow him to play much bigger than your average 6-3 guard ... his ballhandling is ever-improving, as is his outside shot ... he still is relatively new to organized basketball, having played just two years of high school ball, very little as a freshman at Maryland and then all of last season ... he missed the early part of fall practice after undergoing surgery to remove bone chips from his ankle ... As a Sophomore — Played in all 28 games, starting 23 ... early in the season he switched between both guard positions, but when Walt Williams was injured midway through the year, McLinton became the Terps starting point guard ... his development at the point was a major factor in Maryland's surprisingly successful 16-12 campaign ... he scored in double figures eight times, rebounded in double figures once and dished for double digits in assists one time ... he scored a career high 21 points against North Carolina ... his career high 10 rebounds came at West Virginia, where he had a season-high seven offensive boards ... his 12 assists against N.C. State was a career best and the second best game total in school history ... after taking over for Walt Williams at the point, McLinton averaged 7.4 points, 5.2 assists and only 4.0 turnovers a game ... his 123 total assists led the 1990-91 Terps, while he was second on the team in steals (39), fifth in scoring (7.8 ppg) and seventh in rebounding (3.4 rpg) ... he shot 43.7 percent from the field and 68.6 percent from the line ... As a Freshman — Played in six games, starting three in 1989-90 before a stress fracture in his left leg forced him from the line-up ... he missed the rest of the season, using the spring semester to rehabilitate the leg and concentrate on his academics ... in his six games of active duty, however, he showed tremendous promise ... he opened his collegiate career with an eight-point, seven-assist performance against Delaware State ... two nights later, against Augusta, he scored a season-high 10 points, going eight of nine from the line ... for the year, he averaged 3.7 points and 2.8 assists a game ... High School — Played at Springbrook High School ... he led SHS to a 43-6 two-year record and one state championship (1987-88 season) ... in his first year of varsity he started at power forward, averaged 12 points a game and led the team to the state title ... then as a senior, he was moved to point guard, where he directed the offense while scoring 19.5 points a game and adding seven rebounds and five assists an outing ... he also led the team in steals, field goal percentage (.550) and free throw percentage (.750) ... he was named to the Montgomery Journal's all-Metropolitan team and was a second team selection on the Washington Post's all-Met team ... McLinton has given all-new meaning to the term beginners luck: In his first year of varsity basketball (1987-88), he led Springbrook to the state title, then in the fall of 1988, his first season as part of an organized football team, he led Springbrook to the state football title ... in that football championship game, played at Maryland's Byrd Stadium, he returned an interception 99 yards for the clinching touchdown ... he played his high school basketball for Coach John Barrett, a Maryland graduate ... Personal — Born August 28, 1971 ... his full name is Kevin Dennard McLinton ... he is majoring in criminal justice ... his brother, Darren, 17, plays for the varsity at Springbrook ... his father is the former Washington Redskins all-star middle linebacker Harold McLinton, who tragically died in an accident in 1978.

#21
Senior, Forward
6-6, 232
Bronx,
New York

At Maryland — He is equal parts court jester and enforcer for the Terps ... he was a starter all of last season and, despite being in the program just one season, enters this year as one of the team's "go-to" leaders ... despite his diminutive size, he proved last year to be a prototype power forward ... he can score in traffic and has outstanding touch and range from the outside ... his rebounding is ever-improving and this year he will be counted upon to be one of the Terps best glass cleaners ... off the court, he always has a smile on his face and he is the unofficial team leader in high fives ... he came to Maryland after two seasons at Coffeyville Community College in Coffeyville, Kan ... As a Junior — He played in all 28 games, starting 26 ... he averaged 10.9 points, fourth best on the squad, and 5.4 rebounds a game, third best overall ... he was second on the team in field goal shooting at 52.7 percent ... he shot 67.6 percent from the line for the year, but was near perfect late in games, hitting of 10 of 10 free throws in the final three minutes for the Terps during the last half of the season ... in fact, Smith twice sealed victories for Maryland with his free throw shooting prowess ... he scored the winning points on last second free throws against both American and N.C. State; he hit both ends of a two-shot foul with :07 remaining against State and he went four-for-four in the final :17 against American to seal the victories ... he scored in double figures 15 times, including 10 of the team's final 13 games ... he led the team in scoring twice (against Clemson and Virginia Tech) and in rebounding six times ... At Coffeyville CC — He was a two-year starter and twice was the team's leading scorer ... he averaged 22 points a game as a freshman and 16.1 points and eight rebounds a game as a sophomore ... he was a Jayhawk East All-Conference selection both years and was an honorable mention All-American after his sophomore year ... he was named to the East-West All-Star Game and was selected as the East squad's MVP ... he led CCC to an 18-13 record his sophomore year and finished his career as the school's No. 3 all-time scorer ... He played for Coach Ben Graefe ... High School — Graduated from Evander Childs High School, but did not play basketball for the school ... instead, he played for the nationally-renowned Riverside Church AAU team ... he played for Our Savior Lutheran High School as a junior, leading the team to the state championship — beating a team led by Kenny Anderson in the finals ... he was coached at Riverside by Ernie Lorch ... Personal — Born December 18, 1969 in Jamaica and moved to New York in 1978 ... he has five sisters and one brother, all living in New York ... he is majoring in criminal justice.

Quoting Coach Williams

"Garfield is the team comedian, but he also is the guy that is not afraid of getting in someone's face and yelling at him. Every team needs a guy like that in a leadership role and as one of our seniors, Garfield is definitely one of our team leaders."

Mike

Sophomore, Guard
6-3, 185
Glen Burnie, Maryland

At Maryland — An outside shooting specialist who has found his niche on this team ... his work ethic and grasp of the game reminds the coaching staff of another former walk-on, Vince Broadnax ... like Broadnax, the coaching staff rewarded Thibeault's diligence by granting him a scholarship this summer ... he is fiercely competitive and is always hustling ... with the graduation of Matt Roe, expect Thibeault to see increased minutes and be one of the Terps three-point shooting specialists ... he also has proven to be an effective weakside rebounder ... he decided to attend Maryland over a number of Division II and III basketball offers because of its School of Engineering, but had always dreamed of playing basketball for Maryland ... he gave some thought to trying out for Maryland's soccer team, but wanted to give his first love, basketball, a complete effort ... As a Freshman — He played in 18 games, averaging just under one point and one rebound a game ... his season high was three points (in three different games) and three rebounds ... after seeing little action in the first part of the season, he played in 15 of the final 18 games of the year ... High School — Played at Glen Burnie High School ... led the Metropolitan area in scoring as a senior with a 29.9 points per game average ... he was a three-year starter and the team's leading scorer as a junior and senior ... team MVP both seasons as well ... he was a first team all-state selection in basketball as a senior and was a two-time all-state pick in soccer ... Personal — Born February 29, 1972, a leap year child which makes his current age 5 1/2 ... he is the youngest of four ... his last name is pronounced TEE-bow ... he is enrolled in the University's extremely demanding civil engineering curriculum.

Quoting Coach Williams

"He proved he could help us last year and that's why we gave him a scholarship. There are going to be some battles this year for playing time in the backcourt, and I look for Mike to be right in the middle of them."

WAYNE BRISTOL

On Bristol — Can play either the point or the shooting guard ... he is exceptionally quick an agile ... he is used to playing a fullcourt, pressure defense style and he will be a strong addition to Maryland's press ... he has an excellent outside shot, and will be expected to be a key three-point shooter for the Terps ... he is a terrific all-around athlete, who High Point football coach Dale Castro, a former Terp star, thought would make an all-league punter ... High School — Played at High Point High School ... he averaged 22.3 points and 7.1 rebounds a game as a senior and led High Point to the County championship and second place in the Region ... he was a unanimous All-Met selection after his senior season, and was runner-up for Player of the Year by the Washington Post ... he was the Prince George's Journal Player of the Year ... he graduated as the school's all-time leading scorer with 1,234 career points ... he had back-to-back 500-point seasons with 536 as a senior and 500 as a junior ... he played for the Capital All-Stars in the annual Capital Classic ... he led High Point to three straight County titles, a first in Prince George's County schoolboy history ... more impressively, he led unheralded High Point to a State Championship his sophomore year and the State runner-up as a junior ... he averaged 19.6 points a game as a junior, playing in the same lineup with Christian Ast of Duke ... in three varsity seasons, he led HPHS to a 66-10 overall record ... he signed with Maryland during the November (1990) early signing period ... Personal — Born January 24, 1973 ... his full name is Wayne Cecil Bristol ... he has yet to decide on a major

Quoting Coach Williams

"Wayne reminds me of a young Jay Burson in that he always seems to find a way to score. This year, I'd like to see him develop his ballhandling and decision making with the basketball, because he has the potential to be a significant player for us."

FRANK HORTON

At Maryland — Joined the team as a walk-on shortly after the start of the 1990-91 season ... he possesses an accurate outside shot, and is used on the scout team to often simulate an opponent's best outside shooter ... that role allowed him to imitate some of the country's best long-range bombers, including Rodney Monroe of N.C. State, Kenny Anderson of Georgia Tech and John Crotty of Virginia ... he was effective in that practice role as Maryland forged season series splits with those three ACC foes ... his role this season will be much the same ... with the graduation of three-point specialist Matt Roe, Horton might see some increased playing time ... As a Junior — He played in five games ... he scored late in the game at N.C. State for his only field goal of the year ... his one assist came at home against Boston University ... he passed off late in that game instead of shooting at the crowd's vocal urging ... High School — Played at Archbishop Carroll High School, the same school that brought Maryland record setters Derrick and Cedric Lewis ... he played junior varsity basketball as a junior ... he also played a year of hoops at Fork Union Military Academy before enrolling at Maryland ... he graduated from Carroll in 1988 ... Personal — He was born July 12, 1970 in Liberia, West Africa and spent his first nine years there ... he is an only child ... he is majoring in urban studies.

Quoting Coach Williams

"Frank did some things to help us in practice last year. This season we'll see if he has improved to the point where we can expand his role"

CHRIS KERWIN

On Kerwin — Will vie for the starting center spot this season ... he will be in his first year of eligibility at Maryland after sitting out last season under NCAA transfer guidelines ... at 6-10, he is the tallest Terp ... he has a good all-around game ... he can stick the outside jump shot, is an effective rebounder and has a tremendous work ethic ... he has spent much of the last year trying to add strength in the weightroom ... Gary Williams has often likened Kerwin's court movements to a young Kevin McHale, now of the Boston Celtics ... says Williams: "he pivots the same way, has the same type of shot and he has long arms which make him an effective rebounder even though he is not a great leaper" ... At Old Dominion — Transferred from ODU after two seasons ... was the primary back-up to All-Sun Belt Conference center Chris Gatlin ... averaged 2 points and 2 rebounds a game as a sophomore for the Monarchs ... he was recruited to ODU by then-Monarch's assistant coach Art Perry, who is now an assistant at Maryland ... High School — Played at Santaluces High School ... played to years at the West Palm Beach high school after beginning his varsity career in White Fish Bay, Wisconsin ... averaged 15 points and 11 rebounds a game as a senior at Santaluces ... his high school coach was Willie Gibson ... Personal — Born 2/21/70 ... his full name is Christopher Daniel Kerwin ... he is the youngest of seven children ... his six siblings — three brothers, three sisters — all were competitive swimmers ... he is majoring in criminal justice.

"Chris really is an important part of our team because of our overall lack of size. His ability to give us some quality minutes at center will be a key to our season."

#32
Alan Rainge
Freshman, Guard

ALAN RAINGE

On Rainge — A late addition to the Terps recruiting class after deciding to attend Maryland in the early summer ... he hails from one of the most talent-rich areas of high school basketball in the country — Detroit and its suburbs ... he has experience playing both the point and the off guard, but probably will see most of his playing time at the 2-guard spot ... he was ranked among the top 250 high school seniors in the nation last year by Bob Gibbons ... he played on an outstanding AAU team that included Chris Webber and Jalen Rose (both of Michigan) and Voshon Lenard (of Minnesota) ... High School — Played at Pontiac Central ... a three-year starter, he was the team's leading scorer each season ... as a senior, he averaged 21.5 points, six rebounds and eight assists a game, leading Central to the Regional playoffs ... he averaged 19 points as a junior and 17 as a sophomore ... he was team captain as a junior and senior and earned first team all-state honors after his senior season ... he was an honorable mention selection on the McDonald's All-American Team ... he also was an All-Metropolitan pick, which included metropolitan Detroit ... he hails from the same high school that produced former college and professional great Campy Russell ... Personal — Born December 12, 1972 ... his full name is Alan Omar Rainge ... his brother, Louis, played basketball at the University of Detriot, and his sister, Ebony, at 6-1 1/2 already is playing for the Pontiac Central girls varsity at the tender age of 15 ... he has yet to decide on a major.

Quoting Coach Williams

"Alan has major college quickness, which is key for this team. It will be interesting to watch the speed and quickness that potentially he brings to our pressure defense and our fast-break offense."

KURTIS SHULTZ

On Shultz — A big, strong inside player who should give Maryland considerable help on the boards ... his play will be key for Maryland as the Terps try to revamp their defensive middle in the absence of Cedric Lewis ... he originally committed to attending the U.S. Naval Academy, but never enrolled fulltime at the Academy ... after his Plebe Summer, he decided to resign his appointment and did not attend college last year ... during his year off, he worked as a substitute teacher in Baltimore County and worked on sharpening his game ... High School — Played his final two seasons at DeMatha High School ... he began his prep career at McDonough High in Baltimore, but transferred to DeMatha after two seasons ... he led the Stags to a third place city finish as a junior and the city's No. 2 spot as a senior, when he averaged 12 points and 12 rebounds a game ... he averaged six point and seven rebounds as DeMatha's starting center his junior year ... at McDonough, he started both years in basketball and also played tight end and defensive end for the football team ... Personal — Born March 10, 1972 ... his full name is Kurtis William Shultz ... he is easily the strongest player on the team ... during his year off between high school and college he got involved in body building and bench pressed as much as 290 pounds during that time ... he also has the largest feet on the team, strapping on size 19 Nikes ... his father, Ron, is the athletic director at Dundalk High School ... he has yet to decide on a major.

Quoting Coach Williams

"He certainly has the physical strength to play at this level. The key for us as a coaching staff is to try and find the position that best takes advantage of his skills."

GENO SOTO

On Soto — He is expected to vie for a starting forward spot ... he possesses excellent touch from the outside and it not afraid of being physical as a rebounder ... he has considerable international experience, so he is a bit more prepared for the physical college game than most true freshmen ... there will be times when Soto will be the tallest player Maryland has on the floor and as such he will find himself playing every position along the front line ... he played for the Puerto Rican National Team in 1990 at the Junior World Championships ... he also was a late cut from the Puerto Rican Pan American Team this past summer ... he signed with Maryland during the November (1990) early signing period, choosing the Terps over several other ACC and Big East conference schools ... High School — Played for two years at Teaneck High School in Teaneck, N.J ... he played there as a sophomore and junior, and led the team in scoring each season ... he averaged 19.5 points as a sophomore and 29 points 12 rebounds — both team highs — as a junior ... he returned to his native Puerto Rico for his senior season and graduated from San Benito High School ... Personal — Born March 9, 1973 ... his full name is Eugenio Felipe Soto ... he is majoring in biological sciences.

Quoting Coach Williams

"He's another physically strong player. It's unusual for true freshmen to be as physically developed as Geno and Kurtis are. I fully expect to get some quality playing time out of Geno this season."

JOHN WALSH

On Walsh — An incredibly diligent worker and all-around gifted basketball player ... he probably is best suited for the small forward position, given his outstanding long-range shooting abilities ... tall and lanky, he will have a distinct height advantage against most opponents when playing on the wing ... he will benefit greatly from Maryland's intense weight training program ... from day one, he will be one of the best passers among Maryland frontcourt personnel ... High School — Played his senior season at St. Thomas More Prep in Oakdale, Conn ... he averaged 18 points, 11 rebounds and four assists a game and led St. Thomas to a 19-10 overall record and a fourth-place finish in the New England Championships ... his coach at St. Thomas More, Jerry Quinn, raved about his work ethic ... three St. Thomas More Prep players signed with Division I schools ... prior to enrolling at St. Thomas More, he competed for West Islip High School, which is in the same Long Island, N.Y. league that produced N.C. State forward Tom Gugliotta ... at West Islip, he started for three seasons and was his team's leading scorer as both a sophomore and junior ... he averaged 19 points and 10 rebounds as a sophomore and 26 points, 12 rebounds and 6 assists a game as a junior ... Personal — Born October 25, 1972 ... his fullname is John David Walsh ... his father is the former coach at Babylon High School on Long Island, and produced such notable college players as Chris Burst (UNC) and Matt Burst (St. John's) ... he is the middle of three children ... his older sister, Laura, graduated from Providence, and his younger sister, Sarah, is a high school senior ... he has yet to decide on a major.

Quoting Coach Williams

"He's the son of a coach and it is obvious he knows the game well. Guys like him usually have a way of winding up with playing time. I would like to see him mature physically a bit, but he knows what to do with the ball."

JOE WOOTTEN

On Wootten — Another former DeMatha Stag who joins the Terps this season ... he is a former high school teammate of Maryland freshman Kurtis Shultz ... earned a roster spot this year as a walk-on ... fundamentally, he is as sound a player as there is ... hustles every day in practice and will be a key component of Maryland's scout team ... his father is the legendary coach of DeMatha, Morgan Wootten ... historically, Maryland has had outstanding success behind DeMatha players ... the list of former Terps who attended DeMatha includes: Gary Ward, Adrian Branch, Dutch Morley and Jerrod Mustaf ... High School — Played at DeMatha High School ... two-year varsity player and starter as a senior ... he averaged five points, four assists and less than a turnover a game ... as the Stags point guard, he led DeMatha to a perfect 30-0 record as a senior ... DeMatha won the Catholic League and City titles and were ranked as high as No. 5 in the country by USA Today ... the Stags were the City runner-up in 1990 ... he was named the team's Unsung Hero and its Most Valuable Senior after that campaign ... he also was an honorable mention all-league pick in the Washington Metro Athletic Conference ... Personal — Born December 19, 1972 ... his full name is Joseph Morgan Wootten ... he is the youngest of five kids ... he has yet to decide on a major.

Quoting Coach Williams

"As a walk-on, his role is to help prepare the team by being someone who works hard in practice and does what we ask of him as far as running the scout team. I know Joe will do a great job in that role, but I also know he is an excellent ballhandler and he could help us in certain game situations too."

THE COACHING STA

Gary

GARY WILLIAMS

Head Coach

In 13 years as a college basketball head coach, Gary Williams consistently has fielded teams that exceeded all expectations.

He directed American University to back-to-back 20 win seasons. He coached Boston College to the top of the Big East Conference and to the NCAA Sweet 16, twice. He coached Ohio State toward the kind of frenzied following the football squad has always enjoyed, leading the Buckeyes to three consecutive post-season appearances.

But at Maryland, Williams has transformed the fortunes of Terrapin basketball so dramatically it is beyond comparison to his previous experience. His Maryland teams own a 35-26 record, 11-17 in Atlantic Coast Conference play. Those numbers might be considered ordinary, except that many so-called "experts" suggested Williams' Terps would be winless in the league at this juncture.

Williams' Terps have enjoyed wins over every league opponent, save one. Two years ago, he took a team that was a unanimous pick to finish at the bottom of the league standings to a fifth place ACC finish and a berth in the National Invitation Tournament. Last year, he directed a team that lost its only bona fide star player to injury for 12 games yet still managed 16 wins overall and five in the ACC.

His 35-26 Maryland mark brings Williams' overall won- loss record to 242-154 in 13 seasons. His out-of-conference record at Maryland is 22-7, including an 11-3 mark last season, when Williams finished third in the balloting for ACC Coach of the Year.

With back-to-back winning seasons, Williams became only the second coach in school history to direct his first two teams to winning records. Bud Millikan, in the early 1950s, is the only other Maryland coach to do it, equalling Williams with his former mentor.

A 1968 graduate of Maryland, Williams lettered as the Terps' starting point guard from 1964-67 under Millikan's direction. Not the most physically gifted college player, Williams excelled on the court by studying the game. The full court pressure defense Williams' teams are now known for, is a variation on what he was first taught at Maryland as a player. The fast breaking offense Williams employs today is similar to the up-tempo style that Vic Bubas' Duke teams used when Williams was a player.

Upon graduation, Williams immediately began applying the lessons and observations of his playing days to his career as a coach.

That career includes a high school state championship and seven seasons as a college assistant before taking a head coaching position - the top spot at American. His years at AU were memorable. In 1981, his squad set a school record for victories with a 24-6 slate, won the East Coast Conference Championship and played in the NIT. The next year, the Eagles went 21-9 and made a return trip to the NIT. In four years at AU, Williams' teams were 72-42.

CAREER STATISTICS

Here's a glance at Williams' career statistics at Maryland:

In 1983, he moved on to Boston College, leading those Eagles to a 25-7 record, the Big East Conference regular season title and the NCAA "Sweet 16" that first season. Three of Williams' BC squads would go on to play in the post-season, twice earning trips to the final 16.

In 1987, Williams accepted the head coaching position at Ohio State, and immediately was a success. His first Buckeyes squad upended then No. 1 and unbeaten Iowa in the regular season. That would be the first of many giant-killings by the Williams-led Buckeyes. Other big wins would follow, including victories over second-ranked Purdue, perennial power Kansas and highly regarded Big 10 foes Michigan and Illinois.

Williams is the only coach to direct programs in the three elite conferences of college basketball — the Atlantic Coast, the Big East and the Big 10. He has delivered each of the four schools he has coached to post-season berths, taking nine teams to post-season action, including three trips to the NCAA Tournament.

As he enters the 1991-92 season a few games shy of 250 career wins, look for Williams' Terps to again exceed all expectations.

This Guy Can Coach

Last season Gary Williams solidified his standing as one of the best game coaches in the country. In 1990-91, the Terps led the ACC in winning "close games", defined as any game where the teams are within five points with five minutes to play, or any game decided by five or fewer points, or any overtime game. The Terps, with Williams on the sidelines calling the shots, were 9-3 in "close games" last year, a .750 winning percentage. Maryland was 4-1 in ACC close games and 5-2 in non-ACC nailbiters.

This Guy Can Coach II

The Terps posted three of the ACC's seven best comebacks last season, another testimony to Gary Williams bench coaching skills. The Terps had the league's best comeback, returning from a 17-point halftime deficit to win by six at South Florida. Unofficially, the 17-point turnaround is the best comeback in ACC history. The Terps also came from 12 back at the half to beat Virginia (the league's third best comeback), and from eight down at the half to beat Wake Forest.

Coaches

BILLY HAHN

Assistant Coach

Billy Hahn remembers the glory years of Maryland basketball. He was there on those Super Sunday afternoons when the great Maryland teams of the mid-1970s had some of their most memorable games. He knows first hand that sports fans the following Mondays were talking about the Terps basketball games and not about the Super Bowls that followed it.

Now Hahn is orchestrating similar excitement in Maryland hoops as part of the Terps coaching staff.

When Hahn played at Maryland, from 1971-75, the Terps were one of the nation's most dominant teams. He was part of a National Invitation Tournament championship in 1972, a member of the team that lost arguably the greatest ACC game of all time — 103-100 in triple overtime to N.C. State in 1973 — and he shared in the triumph of captaining his senior team to the third round of the NCAA Tournament in 1975.

When his career continued as a coach, big wins, a few more heartbreaking losses and continued success in the NIT and NCAA tournaments continued as well.

Now he's on the sidelines in College Park to continue the resurgence of one of the country's great hoops programs. It's a program he knows well and loves deeply.

Prior to joining Gary Williams' Maryland staff, Hahn was for three years the head coach at Ohio University, compiling a 42-45 overall record and always fielding competitive teams in the under-appreciated Mid-American Conference. In 1989, he coached the MAC Player of the Year, Paul Graham. Throughout his three years, 100 percent of his senior players earned their degrees.

Prior to his being named head coach, Hahn was for six years the Ohio University assistant, aiding Danny Nee's staffs as its primary recruiter and a savvy court coach. For four years those OU teams posted 20 win seasons, while twice earning trips to the NCAA Tournament and once to the NIT.

Prior to his stint at Ohio, Hahn was for three years an assistant at Rhode Island (1977-80), where he recruited and coached future New York Knicks star Sly Williams, and before that he was an assistant at Davidson College (1976-77) and Morris Harvey College in West Virginia (1975-76).

Hahn, who has earned a reputation as a tireless recruiter, was an equally relentless player. Recruited out of Mishawaka, Ind. — the first Maryland player from the tradition-rich Hoosier state — Hahn starred for the Terps 1971 freshmen team. But in 1972, the Terps recruited a point guard of some repute by the name of John Lucas. Two years later another one by the name of Brad Davis came along. Billy Hahn became a reserve, but handled his fate with typical enthusiasm, becoming the team's vocal leader if not its statistical one.

Now, Hahn helps lead the Terps from the bench, lending to this Maryland team as a coach, the same competitiveness, desire and love for the program that he added to those Maryland teams as a player 20 years ago.

Specifics: 38 (6-22-53)

Education: B.S. Distributive Education, with a minor in business administration, University of Maryland, 1975

Playing Experience: Three-time letterman for the University of Maryland. Team captain in 1974-75. He earned the Alvin Aubinoe Career Contribution Award as a senior and was a member of the ACC Academic Honor Roll in 1974-75.

Coaching: Morris Harvey College, Assistant Coach, 1975-76; Davidson College, Assistant Coach, 1976-77; University of Rhode Island, Assistant Coach, 1977-80 (1979 NIT appearance); Ohio University, Assistant Coach, 1980-86 (1983 & 1985 NCAA Tournament appearance, 1986 NIT appearance); Ohio University, Head Basketball Coach, 1986-89 (three-season record of 42-45).

Personal: Hometown is Mishawaka, Indiana. He is married to the former Kathi Sheehy and the couple has two children: Matthew, 13, and Ashley, 8.

ART PERRY

Art Perry is in his second year on the Maryland staff but his knowledge of this program and basketball in this area spans a lifetime.

A Washington, D.C. native, Perry grew up playing ball in some of the same city leagues in which now he watches many of the nation's top young players compete. Many of the same coaches that helped Perry develop into a schoolboy star are still helping this area's youth hone their basketball skills. He has deep roots in this area.

Perry, 46, went to high school in The District at Eastern High, he played his college ball nearby at American and brings to Maryland an impressive resume of 19 years of coaching and a serene enjoyment that can only come from being "home."

Prior to accepting Gary Williams' assistant coaching offer last year, Perry was for six years, on the staff of Tom Young at Old Dominion University. However, Perry's association with Young goes back well beyond ODU. Perry had coached almost continually with the Maryland graduate (Class of '58) since 1973, when he joined Young's Rutgers staff as a student coach. He was with Young at Rutgers when the Scarlet Knights earned a berth in the 1976 NCAA Final Four. After a brief stint at Connecticut, Perry rejoined Young at Rutgers as a fulltime assistant in 1978 and had stayed with Young at Rutgers and ODU until accepting the Maryland assistants post.

Like his counterpart on the Maryland coaching staff, Billy Hahn, Perry is a tireless recruiter, and he has a keen eye for talent. More than 20 student-athletes that Perry has recruited have been drafted into the pros, and more than 10 have played extensively. Among his most recent recruiting jewels was prep All-American Chris Gatling to Old Dominion. Gatling, of course, was picked in the first round of this summer's NBA draft. To Rutgers, Perry recruited future NBA players Roy Hinson and John Battle.

But Perry's experiences with outstanding basketball talent is not confined to his coaching roles. As a college player at American, Perry was a teammate of Kermit Washington, who went on to star in the NBA. Perry, too, had visions of basketball after college, but a knee injury prior to his junior season dashed those hopes and led him toward coaching. When Young offered him a chance to finish his degree as a student coach, the career was born.

Perry was a three-sport star at Eastern High School, which during the early 1960s was the District's athletics powerhouse. As a senior, Perry quarterbacked both the football and basketball (as a point guard) teams to the city championship. He also was a sprinter on the track team. Perry graduated from Eastern High in 1964 and spent four years as a crew chief for jet fighters and as a member of the All-Air Force basketball team before returning to D.C. and enrolling at American.

Specifics: 46 (11-8-46)

Education: B.S. Health, Physical Education and Recreation, Rutgers University, 1975; currently enrolled in the M.A. Sports Management program at Old Dominion.

Playing Experience: Three-time letterwinner at American University, 1970-73; four times named to the All-Air Force Team, 1965-69

Coaching: Rutgers University, Assistant Coach, 1973-76 (1976 NCAA Final Four); University of Connecticut, Assistant Coach, 1976-78; Rutgers University, Assistant Coach, 1978-85 (NCAA Tournament twice, NIT once); Old Dominion University, Assistant Coach, 1985-90 (1986 NCAA Tournament, 1988 NIT Tournament); University of Maryland, Assistant Coach, 1990-Present.

Personal: Hometown is Washington D.C. His mother, sister and brother all still live in The District. Perry is single.

Assistant Coach

COREY GAVITT
Part-Time Assistant Coach

Corey Gavitt has followed Gary Williams-coached teams since his youth, when he would sit near courtside to watch Williams' Boston College Eagles.

Now, Gavitt will be courtside with Williams as he begins his first year on the Maryland staff.

A 1989 graduate of North Carolina with a degree in speech communications, Gavitt lettered four years as an attackman on the Tar Heels highly-competitive lacrosse team.

Even though is collegiate playing experience involves lacrosse, Gavitt has grown up around the game of basketball. His father, Dave, is the Executive Vice President of the Boston Celtics and the former commissioner of the Big East Conference. Gavitt's older brother, Danny, is also a Division I assistant, aiding Rick Barnes staff at Providence.

Last year, Gavitt, 24, served as a scout and the video tape coordinator for the Celtics. It was an experience that will serve him well at Maryland, where he will be involved in all scouting, video tape exchange, as well as coordinating summer camp and clinic programs.

JAMES PATSOS
Volunteer Assistant

After two years as the assistant basketball coach at Archbishop Carroll High School, Jimmy Patsos joins the Maryland staff this year as the volunteer assistant coach.

Having played for four years at nearby Catholic University and after his prep coaching experience, Patsos knows well the basketball community in this metropolitan area.

And he has enjoyed a measure of success in that community. His first year at Carroll, the team posted a 21-8 overall record and was ranked as high as No. 6 nationally before losing to archrival DeMatha in the city playoffs.

At Maryland, Patsos and Corey Gavitt will share many of the scouting, video tape exchange and summer camp organization responsibilities.

With his degree from Catholic in history, Patsos, 25, currently is enrolled in graduate courses at Maryland toward a master's in theater history.

Peter Sauer

Cleo Long-Thomas

PETER SAUER
Administrative Assistant

Handling the day-to-day administrative duties of Maryland's basketball operation is Peter Sauer, who is in his third year with the staff. Sauer was the assistant athletic director for development and communications at the University of Maryland-Baltimore County in 1988, before joining Gary Williams' first staff. In that capacity, he coordinated all marketing efforts over the course of a very successful UMBC season.

Sauer orchestrated the revamping of UMBC's corporate sponsorships, one end result of which was the broadcasting of four Retriever games on television — a University first. His efforts in other areas helped secure for UMBC its most productive year ever at the gate.

Among Sauer's duties for the Terps are coordination of the facilities and schedules and game management. He also coordinates team travel and assists with the organization of the Gary Williams Basketball Camp.

Sauer is a graduate of the University of Maryland, earning a bachelor of arts degree in government and politics in 1981. He went on to earn his law degree in 1987 from the University of Nebraska College of Law.

CLEO LONG-THOMAS
Coaches' Secretary

Trying to keep all the Terps' coaches organized is the job of staff secretary Cleo Long-Thomas, who is in her second season in the hoops office.

The definitive jack-of-all-trades, Long-Thomas handles all of the professional schedules for the Maryland coaches, assists with the planning of Coach Williams' speaking engagements, organizes recruiting correspondence, and generally tries to keep the basketball office running smoothly in the midst of a hectic season.

A native of Washington, D.C., Long-Thomas has worked at the University for five years. Prior that coming to the University, she worked for 17 years in the federal government.

Cleo and her husband, Jocquin, have three children; Tryone, 23, Jabari, 17, and Raven, 7. The couple now resides in Hyattsville, Md.

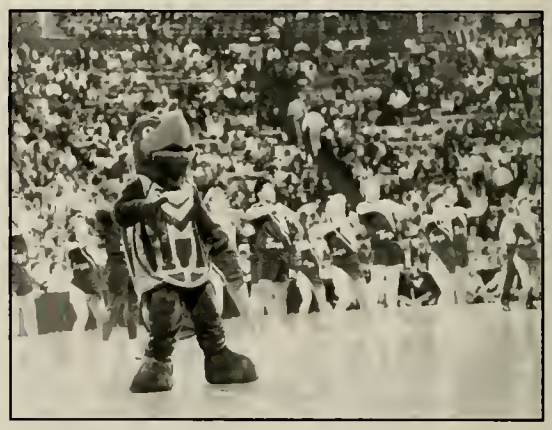
COLE FIELD HOUSE



When college basketball was achieving its most explosive growth — from the late 1950's to the 1970's — there was one college gymnasium on the East Coast that sat as many as 12,000 fans. Cole Field House epitomized the new big time, main event status of college hoops, the sport of network TV and emerging legends. It stands today as a building that faces cosmetic renewal over the next several years, but Cole's charisma will not be tampered with; there was not a bad seat on Dec. 2, 1955, when it was dedicated in a game against Virginia, and there is not a better place to watch a game today. Only in a building like Cole, where history has been routinely made, can the fan feel the echo of tradition, and experience, even in the empty Cole, the electricity generated by buzzer beaters and a thousand slam dunks.

Cole was dedicated as the Student Activities Center, a $3.3 million project that was erected under the tutelage of Board of Regents Chair, Judge William P. Cole Jr., and President Wilson Elkins. A year after the dedication, the building was named in honor of Cole, who served the Board of Regents for 25 years.

Although Cole has remained the same basketball hall it was built to be, there have been refinements. Scoreboards were installed recently that will not only tell the fan what the score is, but also how loud they are cheering. Cole's seating also grew from its original base, and 14,500 fans can now root for the Red and White at any game.

As championships were awarded over the years, Cole got some of the very best. The 1966 and 1970 Men's Basketball Final Fours were held here. Last year, the first and second rounds of the Eastern Regionals were held in Cole Field House. The NCAA Wrestling Championship was held here in 1960, 1972, 1978, 1987, and 1990, and the NCAA Women's Volleyball Championship took place last December.

Cole Field House is home to most of the athletic department offices, and yearly hosts thousands who visit just to see where so much hoop history has been made.

THE UNIVERSITY AT COLLEGE PARK

The University of Maryland College Park is the cornerstone of the 11 school Maryland state system of four year colleges. Chartered in 1856, Maryland College Park is situated on a 1,350 acre campus nine miles north of Washington, D.C., and in close proximity to Maryland's Capital of Annapolis and the state's largest city, Baltimore. Acres of lawns and tall shade trees accompany the 350 major buildings at Maryland College Park. It is one of the finest universities in the nation.

From its pre-Civil War roots as the state's first agricultural college, and its designation soon after as one of America's original land grant institutions, to it its officially mandated status in 1988 as the "flagship" institution of the state's 11-university system, the University of Maryland at College Park has emerged as one of the nation's foremost public institutions of higher education.

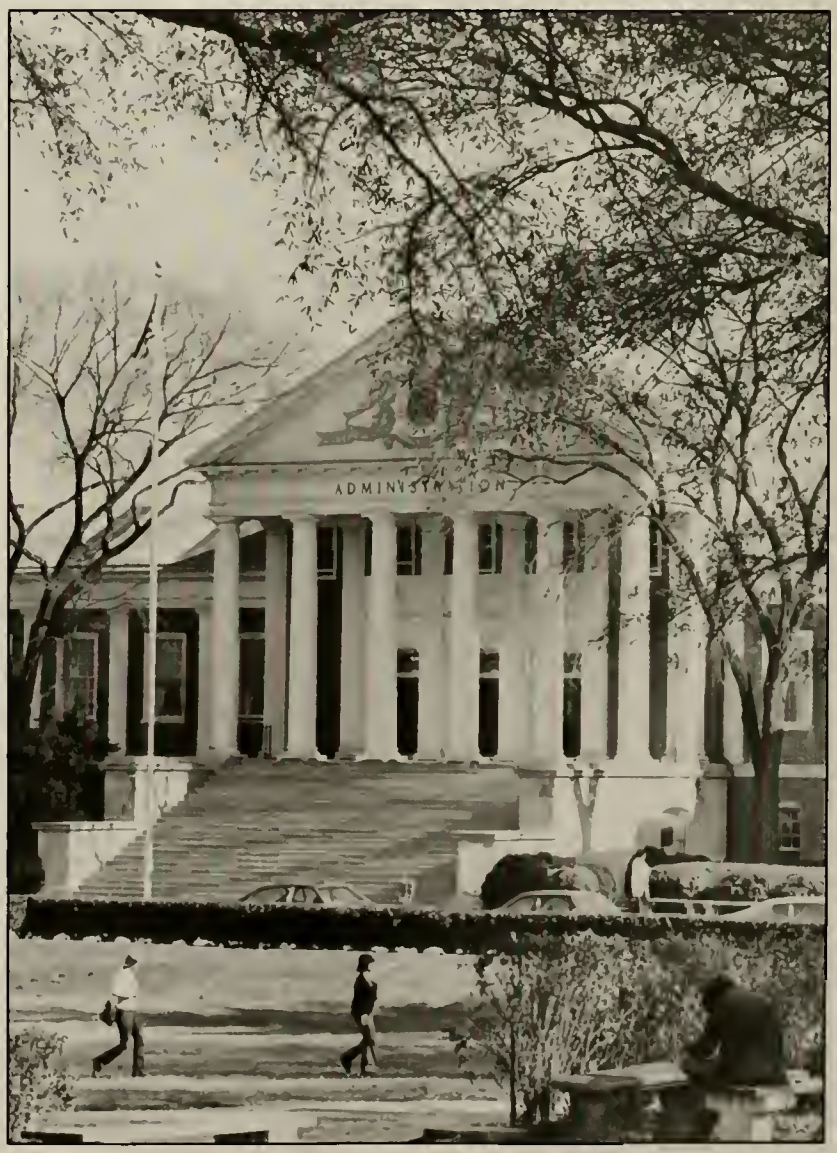
In such disciplines as engineering, computer science, physics, economics, and mathematics, College Park has attracted national and international recognition, placing it among the best of its peers. In the social sciences and humanities, in business and the arts, as well, the university has been widely acclaimed for the quality of its faculty and programs.

Did You Know ...

... that College Park has more than a dozen academic departments and programs rated among the 10 best at public universities in the U.S. by the National Academy of Sciences and other prestigious professional organizations.

Did You Know ...

... that College Park enrolls students from all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and 111 foreign countries.



The 11th largest university in the United States, College Park undergraduate enrollment last year was 26,863. Its students pursue 122 majors for undergraduates and 88 programs for graduate students. Courses are taught by more than 2,081 full-time faculty, many of whom are internationally known scholars and researchers.

Over the past several years the average SAT scores of entering freshmen have soared to the highest in university history. As part of its commitment to enhancing undergraduate education, the university has reduced undergraduate enrollment, improved faculty-student ratios, raised admissions standards, revamped the honors program, strengthened advising, supported student research and encouraged numerous innovations in teaching. Along with the expanded emphasis on improving the learning environment for undergraduate students, the university has placed the highest priority on attracting more minority students and transforming the academic climate for women.

At the same time, the university attracts some of the nation's outstanding research scholars to its faculty. College Park ranks fourth in the nation in total federal research and development funding among public universities without a medical school, and the faculty has been awarded numerous Guggenheim, Sloan and Fulbright fellowships. In addition, since its inception in 1984, the highly coveted National Science Foundation Presidential Young Investigator Award has gone to 17 younger College Park faculty members.

Home to dozens of specialized centers and institutes that focus on areas as diverse as global climate change, international security, advanced helicopter design, super computers, the ecology of the Chesapeake Bay, Renaissance and Baroque studies, and innovative approaches to systems engineering, College Park is a hub of research and academic activity for the state, the region and the nation.

It is also a leader in providing technical assistance to businesses and government agencies as well as a catalyst for technology transfer and economic development within the state. From agricultural economics and artificial intelligence to regional and urban planning and the training of tomorrow's teachers, the university is a rich source of expertise for meeting the needs of both the public and private sector.

On the eve of a new century, the University of Maryland at College Park looks forward to the year 2000 as an institution of vigor and vitality, committed to continuing its role of helping stimulate and strengthen the intellectual, economic and cultural well-being of the students and citizens it serves.

THE ATLANTIC COAST CONFERENCE

The Tradition

Consistency. It's the mark of true excellence in any endeavor.

However, in today's intercollegiate athletics, competition has become so balanced and so competitive that it is virtually impossible to maintain a high level of consistency.

Yet the Atlantic Coast Conference has defied the odds. Founded on May 8, 1953 and now in its 39th year of competition, the ACC has long enjoyed the reputation as one of the strongest and most competitive intercollegiate conferences in the nation. And that is not mere conjecture, the numbers support it.

Atlantic Coast Conference schools have captured 36 NCAA & AIAW championships, including 20 in men's sports and 16 in women's competition. In addition, 69 men and 21 women have earned the coveted title of NCAA Champion.

The University of Maryland brought the first NCAA Championship to the ACC, winning the national football title in 1953.

If success is best measured in terms of wins and losses, then the ACC is unrivaled in NCAA Basketball Tournament history. No Division I conference has posted a better record than the ACC since the NCAA's inaugural tournament in 1938. The eight current conference members have posted an NCAA Tournament mark of 189-104 for a Tournament-best .645 winning percentage. With Duke's dramatic national championship season of 1991, ACC teams have claimed five national titles, while finishing second on eight occasions.

National Audiences

Over the years, ACC basketball teams have gained global recognition through their NCAA Tournament and national television exposure. During the 1991-92 season, a totals of 74 regular season games, plus all eight contests in the annual conference tournament will be televised. ACC teams will be seen this season on all three major networks and ESPN.

The Terps enjoy three ESPN appearances and one game on ABC Television among their nine televised regular season games this year.

Outstanding Academics

The ACC also stands at the forefront of intercollegiate athletics in terms of academic accomplishments of its student-athletes. That accomplishment is nowhere better reflected than in the CFA Academic Achievement Award which is given annually to the CFA member institution with the highest graduation rate among members of its football team. Six times over the past 11 years, an ACC member school has claimed the award.

In addition, since 1963, ACC basketball players have earned first team Academic All-America honors 28 times. The most recent of those honorees is Maryland's Matt Roe, who was a national selection last season. Roe typified the student-athletes in the ACC, earning third team All-ACC honors on the court and first team Academic All-America honors off it.

The Championships

The conference will conduct championships in 23 sports in 1991-92, with 12 for men and 11 for women.

The first ACC championship was held in swimming on Feb. 25, 1954, while the league's inaugural basketball tournament took place March 4-6, 1954. That tournament drew 36,000 fans over three days, and the Grandaddy of college basketball tournaments continues to pack them in. This year's post-season classic will again be held in the Charlotte Coliseum, whose 23,000-plus seats will be filled to capacity four consecutive days.

The ACC this year will sponsor men's championships in basketball, football, cross country, soccer, indoor and outdoor track, wrestling, baseball, swimming, tennis, golf and lacrosse.

Women's sports were initiated at the conference level in 1977. The league will sponsor championships for women in basketball, cross country, volleyball, field hockey, soccer, swimming, indoor and outdoor track, tennis, golf and softball.

University President

William E. Kirwan

After more than 25 years of service as a professor and administrator at the University of Maryland at College Park, Dr. William E. Kirwan was appointed president on February 1, 1989. He had served as acting president of the University since August 1, 1988, when the resignation of President John B. Slaughter became effective.

Under Dr. Kirwan's leadership, the University of Maryland at College Park recently developed a $150 million, five-year plan to enhance the University, including a program to strengthen undergraduate education.

Dr. Kirwan joined the University in 1964 as an assistant professor of mathematics. He rose steadily through the faculty ranks as associate professor (1968-72), professor (1972-present) and chair of the Department of Mathematics (1977-81).

In 1981, he was appointed vice chancellor for academic affairs, College Park's chief academic post. From August to November 1982, Dr. Kirwan served as acting chancellor, returning to his position as vice chancellor when Dr. Slaughter was appointed chancellor of College Park. As vice chancellor, Dr. Kirwan raised admission standards, increased the number of merit scholarships and graduate fellowships, and established an academic planning process.

Dr. Kirwan is a member of numerous honorary and professional societies, including Phi Beta Kappa, the American Mathematical Society, and the Mathematical Association of America. He is the co-editor of the book Advances in Complex Analysis, and the author of many published articles on mathematical research. He served as editor of the Proceedings of the American Mathematical Society from 1977 to 1985. Currently, he chairs the Mathematical Sciences in the Year 2000 committee, a task force created by the National Research Council to improve mathematics education at the nation's colleges and universities during the next decade.

Born in Louisville, Ky. on April 14, 1938, Dr. Kirwan received his bachelor's degree in mathematics from the University of Kentucky in 1960. He holds master's (1962) and Ph.D. (1964) degrees in mathematics from Rutgers University.

Dr. Kirwan and his wife, Patricia, have a son who received his bachelor's and master's degrees in architecture from College Park and a daughter who currently is a student at the University.

Andy

ANDY GEIGER

Andy Geiger, whose tenure as Athletic Director at Stanford University elevated him to the top rank of athletic administrators, was named to direct the athletic program at Maryland by College Park President William E. Kirwan on Sept. 7, 1990.

Since Geiger's first day on the job (Oct. 1), he has elevated the image of Maryland athletics, while providing structure and planning for the 1990s and beyond.

Of immediate impact was his being instrumental in Maryland going to its first football bowl game in five years (the Independence Bowl); rewarding coaches Joe Krivak and Gary Williams for their successes with new contracts; and establishing across the board equilibrium in the 23-sport program in the face of financial challenges.

Competitive highlights included Geiger's presence at Maryland's bids for its own NCAA titles: men's and women's lacrosse each made the NCAA's Final Four. Maryland won its first ever Atlantic Coast Conference Volleyball Championship, to add to the longest list of ACC titles won by any school.

Geiger is guiding the $68 million Maryland Partnership, a matching gift program with the State of Maryland, that is bringing vast improvements to both Byrd Stadium and Cole Field House. Above all, he is establishing management procedures to handle the complexities of a large, Division I athletic program, needed in a time of unparalleled scrutiny of college athletics.

Geiger's academic philosophy, built-up over 27 years as an administrator (that included athletic directorships at Brown, Pennsylvania, and Stanford) is being established at Maryland. The Cardinal was as successful as any NCAA program in winning NCAA championships (27) during his tenure. His 11-year stewardship included a realignment of the department, and a highly successful restructuring of Stanford's ability to attract gift-giving. The obvious success was not at the expense of academics.

He was named Athletic Director at Brown in 1972, and he moved to another Ivy League school, Pennsylvania, in 1975. During his final year there (1978-79), Pennsylvania became the last Ivy school to qualify for the Final Four of the NCAA Men's Basketball Championship. While at Penn he was named to the NCAA Division I Basketball Committee, and as a member he helped direct the enormous explosion of the NCAA Tournament in the 1980s.

Geiger, 51, is a 1961 graduate of Syracuse where he was an oarsman. He competed in the 1959 Pan American Games as a member of the U.S. crew team, and he served as manager of the U.S. Pan Am squad in 1971. He was freshman crew coach at Dartmouth immediately after graduation, and later served as secretary of the U.S. Olympic Rowing Committee. He served as Assistant Athletic Director at his alma mater from 1964-1970.

Geiger has been married to the former Eleanor Rollings for 28 years. They have two children, Phillip and Gregory.

MEDICAL STAFF

J.J. BUSH

Head Trainer

A well-known advocate in Maryland for improved training techniques at all levels of competition, John Jay Bush came to the University in 1972 and was appointed head trainer in 1978. He has the overall responsibility for training and injury prevention care for Maryland's 23 intercollegiate sports.

His time in College Park has allowed him to spread the word around the state on improved training methods and organization. He is active in the National Athletic Trainers Association, with accentuation on improving techniques on the high school level.

In addition to his training duties, Bush also teaches a kinesiology course on preventative training techniques for the University and is a frequent speaker around the mid-atlantic region of the United States on the latest training methods.

A native of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Bush, 44, earned a Bachelor of Science degree from Florida State University in 1969. He and his wife, Gina, have two children, Brandon, 14, and Jordan, 7.

BILL SAYLOR

Basketball Trainer

Providing the day-to-day injury-prevention care to the Maryland basketball team is trainer Bill Saylor, who is in his fifth year as chief trainer for the team.

One of four full-time assistants to Head Trainer J.J. Bush, Saylor works with most of Maryland's athletic teams, and supervises the training of the men's basketball team, specifically. He coordinates and supervises the team's off-season conditioning regimen. He travels with the team and supervises all rehabilitative efforts in the advent of an injury.

Saylor was a letterwinning wrestler for three years and a football safety for one year at Delaware. He graduated from Delaware in 1980 with a Bachelor of Science in physical education. He earned his master's degree in physical education from Virginia in 1983.

Prior to coming to Maryland, Saylor served as a trainer in the Sports Medicine Department of the U.S. Naval Academy for three years.

Saylor, 39, is married to the former Patricia Bird.

Dr. STAN LAVINE

Team Physician

Dr. Stan Lavine's role at Maryland has been to make the Terrapins go, whether as an undergraduate standout in football, or as the team physician for almost three decades.

A native of Pittsburgh, Lavine came to the University of Maryland as a doctor-to-be and an outstanding quarterback.

By the time he graduated in 1950, he held several Maryland passing records, enjoyed a senior season that included a win over powerful Missouri in the Gator Bowl, and possessed a solid educational foundation that served him well in medical school.

After graduating from the University's Medical School, he interned in hospitals in Philadelphia and Cleveland, served two years in the Air Force, and then began his orthopedic medical practice and work with Maryland's athletic teams.

Dr. Lavine attends all football games, home basketball games, and some road games, and he is on call at all times for the athletes on the University's 23 sports teams.

Basketball Trainer Bill Saylor prepares Geno Soto for action.

STUDENT HEALTH CENTER

Much of the non-orthopedic medical care the Maryland student-athletes receive is performed on campus at the University's Student Health Center. Dr. Stephen Fahey and Dr. Sacred Bodison are the two fulltime Health Center physicians who specialize in sports medicine.

Both Dr. Fahey and Dr. Bodison are available to treat student-athletes 24 hours a day, and both have scheduled hours in which they staff the University training rooms to consult with student-athletes on a walk-up basis.

Dr. Fahey is an emergency physician who is in his fifth year working with the athletic department. He received his undergraduate degree from Dartmouth, where he competed in rugby and freshman basketball. His hoops coach was Dave Gavitt, the father of current Maryland asssistant coach Corey Gavitt. He received his medical degree from Harvard in 1975.

Dr. Bodison, in her 12th year as the Health Center's assistant director for medical services, has been the coordinator of sports medicine since 1982. She is a graduate of the University of Buffalo and received her medical degree from SUNY-Down State Medical School in 1975.

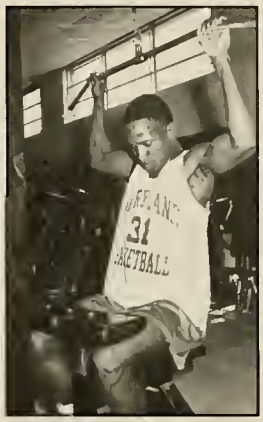
She and her husband have two children, Sasha, 12, and Brenton, 8. The family resides in Silver Spring, Md.

STRENGTH AND CONDITIONING

Preparing an athlete to play a particular sport is the mission of the Strength and Conditioning program at Maryland. Proper training leads to more confidence on the athlete's part, and translates into a competitive, ready Terrapin.

Strength and Conditioning is directed by Frank Costello, an extraordinary competitor and coach. As a Terrapin undergraduate, he was the third ranked high jumper in the world. He was an NCAA Champion and four-time All-America. As a coach he led Maryland to both the IC4A Indoor and Outdoor team titles and was NCAA District Coach of the Year. Maryland's Strength and Conditioning Coordinator since 1981, Costello coaches the whole athlete. He is one of the leading authorities on the dangers of drug abuse in his profession, and is a frequent guest on network television, explaining the dangers of taking shortcuts to enhance the body.

Costello and Assistants Dwight Galt, Mike Vasalani, and Rich Nelson begin the road to physically preparing an athlete to play their sport by conferring with the sport's coach, and then testing and evaluating the individual. Weight training, speed training, flexibility training — all could be part of a balanced prescription to excel, depending on the sport.



Galt is on his second stint as part of the Maryland strength staff. He was an assistant strength coach in 1984 and 1985 under Costello, and rejoined the staff just prior to the start of the 1989 football season. Both he and Nelson, a starting offensive lineman for the Terps in 1987 and 1988, have their undergraduate degrees from Maryland. Galt also has a master's degree in exercise physiology and Nelson currently is working towards his master's. Vasalani is in his third year on the staff, after graduating from Slippery Rock in 1987. While at Slippery Rock, he was the National Collegiate Powerlifting Champion.

Maryland's commitment to strength and conditioning grows with the explosion of interest among athletes and coaches. Men's and women's sports, team and individual competitors — every sport is involved.

THE MARYLAND ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT

Over the course of a collegiate basketball season, there are numerous individuals within any athletic department who work tirelessly to see that everything runs smoothly.

At the University of Maryland, every facet of the athletic department is involved in supporting the Terps' 23 intercollegiate sports programs, especially the men's basketball program. From advance marketing and ticket sales months before the season to facility maintanence and uniform cleaning after a game, every member of Maryland's athletic department has a part in the Terrapins' success.

Basketball Coach Gary Williams knows how hard the individuals in the athletic department work for his team and all the others in the program. As a player at Maryland, he was touched by the compassion of department staff toward he and his teammates.

Now as the coach, he is impressed by the commitment of the staff toward his players and his program.

"I honestly believe we have some of the hardest working people in intercollegiate athletics," Williams says. "These people put in tremendous effort and work incredible hours for the sports teams in this department.

"On behalf of the basketball program, I want the people in this department, as well as the Pep Band and cheerleaders and all the individuals that work so hard for us, to know that we appreciate it."

ACADEMIC SUPPORT UNIT

The creation of the Academic Support Unit at Maryland puts the University's commitment to the student-athlete front and center. It is important to the University that each student-athlete grow academically and graduate, and to that end Academic Support has as large a presence as any sport program in the athletic department.

Dr. Gerald Gurney, Associate Athletic Director for Academic Support, oversees a program of intensive assessment, skill development and counseling that is offered to each student-athlete. Academic Support offers a comprehensive program for personal and academic development that includes the following:

* Personal academic assessment
* Tutoring
* Supervised study
* Learning skill programs
* Academic monitoring
* Computer training and usage
* Career mentorship
* Summer internships
* Career awareness programs and job hunting

John Walsh (R) is assisted by one of the Academic Support Unit's tutors.

Dr. Gurney joined Maryland in 1987 after tenures at Southern Methodist and Iowa State, institutions which were lauded for their nationally recognized academic support programs. Dr. Gurney earned his Ph.D. in higher education administration from Iowa State in 1980. He holds a master's degree in counseling and student personnel work, and a bachelor of science in English education, both from Ohio State University.

Working with him is a distinguished staff that includes:

Dr. Javaune Adams-Gaston coordinates the development services arm of the Unit, organizing the student-athlete orientation, drug education and career programs. A licensed clinical psychologist, Dr. Adams-Gaston also coordinates the various counseling programs offered. She received her Ph.D. in counseling psychology from Iowa State in 1983.

Milvia Sadler, a counselor in the Academic Support Unit, coordinates student-athlete study sessions, tutoring schedules and the bookroom. Sadler has her master's in counselor education from Penn State and a bachelor of arts in psychology from North Carolina.

In general, the resources of the University of Maryland's Academic Support Unit are second to none among the nation's university athletic departments.

ATHLETIC HALL OF FAME

The Athletic Hall of Fame was founded in 1982 by the M Club Foundation as a joint project of the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics and the M Club. The first committee was organized by then Athletic Director Dick Dull and consisted of outstanding Terrapin athletes and coaches Jack Faber (Class of 1926), Tom Fields (Class of 1942), Al Heagy (Class of 1930), Jim Kehoe (Class of 1940) and Jack Scarbath (Class of 1952). Arthur L. Kramer (Class of 1942), a letterwinner in tennis, was particularly important in the founding of the Hall of Fame.

Among the qualifications for nominees are being out of school at least 10 years, having earned a minimum of one varsity letter, and if not an under graduate athlete, being a Department of Intercollegiate Athletics staff member for at least 15 years. Nominees will be judged on personal conduct in life and their contributions to the high ideals of intercollegiate athletics.

TERP TRADITIONS

Testudo, a Diamondback Turtle whose name is derived from the scientific classification for turtle (testudines), is the mascot of the University of Maryland. Testudo's flight to become official mascot was (there is no other description) slow. But once on top, Testudo has reigned with a bronze-like grip, peering at generations of younger Terps crossing in front of, or entering the Theodore R. McKeldin Library in the heart of the College Park campus. The 500 pound terrapin's days of roving to conquer rival campuses at the behest of the College Park student body are over, his undisturbed regal bearing insured by his being bolted to a concrete throne.

The need for a mascot was essential in the early 1920s in a world littered with Wildcats, Tigers, Devils, Wolves, Bears, and all sorts of traditional names derived from a half-century of college athletics. Maryland was consolidated from different state schools in 1920 to form the base of today's wide-ranging state system and it needed a flag-carrier to do battle with Wahoos, Lions, and Generals.

Dr. H.C. Byrd, the University President in 1922, recommended the Diamondback as mascot in response to the student newspaper's search for an "official" leader. Although his suggestion was, indeed, "official," there were some who resisted, opting for the older and historically entrenched term, Old-Liners. A label derived from the Revolutionary War when Maryland soldiers earned the accolade for bravery and perseverance in the face of British troops. Old-Liners had a more vocal lobby than the speechless turtle.

By 1935, however, the Yearbook had changed its name from Reveille to Terrapin by a vote of the student body, and save for some splintered resistance, Testudo's family had won. Newspapers, even then exploring every angle, shortened Terrapin to Terp, but Testudo by any name is still a turtle.

Samuel P. Gorham of Providence, R.I., cast Testudo in bronze at the request of the Class of 1933. He was modeled after a feisty Diamondback that came from Dr. Byrd's hometown of Crisfield. Dr. Byrd's choice of mascot was not intended to reflect the docility of Maryland teams. As a small boy near his home he surely found out what so many others have discovered about Terrapins — they bite.

COLORS

The colors of the University of Maryland are those of the state flag—gold, red, black, and white.

Maryland's flag bears the arms of the Calvert and Crossland families. Calvert was the family name of the Lords Baltimore who founded Maryland, and their colors of gold and black appear in the first and fourth quarters of the flag. Crossland was the family of the mother of George Calvert, first Lord Baltimore. The red and white Crossland colors, with a Greek cross terminating in the foils, appear in the second and third quarters. The flag was first flown in its present form October 25, 1888, at Gettysburg Battlefield for the ceremonies dedicating monuments to Maryland regiments of the Army of the Potomac. It was officially adopted in 1904. Maryland law requires that if any ornament is affixed to the top of a flagstaff carrying the Maryland flag, the ornament must be a gold cross bottony.

TERP OLYMPIANS

The ultimate individual reward in amateur athletics is to represent his or her country in international competition. And with the right timing, talent and dedication, international competition can mean participation in an Olympiad. Three Maryland basketball players have been fortunate enough to represent the United States at such a level.

Buck Williams (standing, fourth from right) was Maryland's representative on the 1980 U.S. Olympic Team. Although they never got a chance to compete in Olympic competition because of the U.S. boycott, the '80 squad still is considered one of the strongest U.S. teams ever selected for international competition.

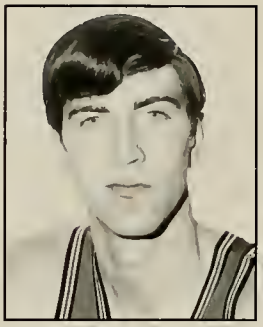
Buck Williams: The Terps' most recent Olympian.

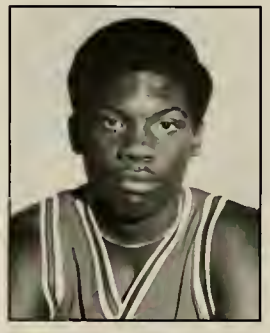
TOM McMILLEN



1972 U.S. Olympian
Silver Medalist

Maryland's No. 5 career scorer and cornerstone of the highly successful Terp teams from 1972-74, McMillen represented the U.S. in 1972, when Coach Henry Iba's team earned a Silver Medal. An Oxford Scholar who spent 10 seasons in the NBA, McMillen was elected Congressman of Maryland's 4th District in 1986.

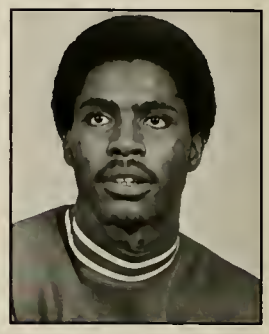
STEVE SHEPPARD



1976 U.S. Olympian
Gold Medalist

Known as the "Bear" to Maryland fans for his ferocious play on three nationally ranked teams during the mid-70's, Sheppard played for North Carolina coach Dean Smith's gold-medal winning 1976 Olympic squad. Sheppard helped the United States to a clean sweep of competition in the Montreal Games, and later played for the Chicago Bulls in the NBA.

CHARLES "Buck" WILLIAMS



1980 U.S. Olympian

Maryland's No. 3 career rebounder, Williams was a member of the 1980 Olympic Team. That squad, along with all other U.S. teams did not participate in that summer's Moscow Olympics, but won four of six games against various NBA All-Star teams and defeated the 1976 gold-medal winning American team.

Steve Sheppard (middle of front row) of Maryland was one of seven ACC players on the 1976 Gold-medal USA Team which was coached by the conference's own Dean Smith.

1976

Tom McMillen (#13) of Maryland averaged 14 points per game for the 1972 U.S. Olympic Team. The '72 squad was coached by the legendary Hank Iba (standing, far right).

Len Elmore Now

Lawyer, Businessman, Commentator, Elmore Still Active in Athletics

Len Elmore's Howard County, Md. home is sparsely furnished. Some internal improvements are forthcoming, then, he says, he and his wife will redecorate.

The suggestion is made that a hat rack be the first new accessory after the remodeling.

Nothing ostentatious, just a simple, tall — the former Maryland All-American still is every bit of the 6-9 he was listed at in college — rack with lots of branches on which he can hang his many professional hats.

After a fast-paced, 10-year career in professional basketball, a whirlwind three years at Harvard Law School and a stint as an Assistant District Attorney for the City of New York, Elmore is back in the area and has settled into his professional life, 'er lives. His business card now should read: lawyer, athletes' agent, business consultant and network television commentator.

Having established himself as a savvy trial attorney in three years in the New York City District Attorney's office, Elmore says he feels like a "rookie" all over again now. He is in the midst of beginning from scratch two professional endeavors — a business consulting firm and his own law office.

Elmore admits that there seldom are enough hours in the day to devote the proper time to both ventures. "I spend a lot of time in traffic," says Elmore, his broad smile not for a minute hiding the daily anguish that comes from having a house in Columbia, Md., one office in Northern Virginia and another in the heart of The District. Not to mention that his wife, Gail, and 14-month old son, Stephen, have not yet moved to Maryland so he commutes to New York each weekend.

Elmore's new consulting firm — The Aegis Group — specializes in bringing failing businesses to profitability. The company consults on everything from providing updated training to top-level managers, to establishing new markets, to purchasing new equipment for automation.

It's exciting, he says, to take over a company that has little or no future in its present state, and turn it around. Still, after spending some time with Elmore, one gets the sense that his new law practice — Temple, Pearson, Elmore and Grady, P.C. — may be where he devotes a majority of his energies.

Joining forces with a fellow Harvard law graduate, and law school grads from Georgetown and Texas, Elmore and his three partners are in the process of setting up a firm in The District that will run the legal gamut. The firm will handle government and immigration law, civil and criminal litigation, corporate development and bankruptcy law — not to mention no small amount of sports law, Elmore hopes.

Clearly, Elmore is excited about breaking into the sports agentry profession. But just as clear is the fact that he and his associates have a unique prospective concerning their roles as advisors to the next generation of outstanding athletes.

"You've heard the horror stories about athletes who have always been successful in sports ... but through mismanagement, either their own or someone else's, or through lack of incentive or training these guys end up hitting rock bottom," Elmore explains.

"What we're doing is installing a component involving career development. Some of the leagues have career development (programs), but you have to get these guys right out of school. You have to impress upon them the importance of preparing from the day you leave school, whether with or without your degree, for your life after sports. If you haven't gotten your degree, we'll facilitate your getting it by setting up a program for you to follow in coordination with counselors and academic advisors, etc. at the school. We also want to be involved in post-graduate programs for individuals who have gotten their degrees to get them involved in post-graduate work. And hopefully get them involved in some apprenticeship programs so they can see hands-on what its like to be in the business world."

Elmore is well aware that this "continuing education" message will fall on more than a few deaf ears of soon-to-be multi-millionaires. However, he also believes he has the professional credibility to get people's attention.

"I know I can be effective," Elmore says, "because everything these guys are going through, I've been through. As far as I know, there is not another All-American, former pro, lawyer anywhere in the country that is trying to do what I am trying to do.

"I can sit across the table from a basketball player, tell him something, and have the credibility to back it up."

On the court, Elmore was one of the greatest players in Maryland history. Nearly 20 years after he graduated, he still owns every school rebounding record. He is one of only four Maryland players to average double figures in point and rebounds for his career and he still is the only Terp with more than 1,000 career boards. Twice he was named All-Atlantic Coast Conference and was named first team All-America — along with teammate Tom McMillen — in 1974. His 10 seasons in the ABA and NBA were spent with four teams and included playing in the ABA Finals as a rookie with the Indiana Pacers, who had drafted him in the first round. He considers a highlight of his professional career to be a stint with the New Jersey Nets late in his career when he was joined by fellow former Terps Buck Williams and Albert King.

The foundation of 15 to 20 years involvement in organized athletics served him well, he believes, in his post-playing career

"I think sports as a road to choice is the greatest thing, provided you keep it in prospective," Elmore says. "I find in the business world a great example are people who just don't have the perseverance and the mentality that when things don't go right they're apt to give up or quit and turn to something else. Then there are those of us who have experienced coming from behind, being down by 10 with two minutes to play, and realize that you can pull it out. All it takes is poise and concentration. I think those are positive things that can be transferable to life outside of athletics."

He most certainly transferred his athletic experiences during his law school years. Never believing he had a shot at Harvard, he applied only at the behest of his then-girl friend, Gail. He still jokes that he was "shocked" Harvard accepted him. "The whole summer before (his first semester) I worried that I might be in over my head," Elmore admits. "But in reality I overestimated the entire experience, because I got out of it exactly what I put in."

He continues to reap positive rewards from seemingly all his varied professional endeavor, because he continues to put a great deal of effort into each one. Still, the Brooklyn, N.Y. native seems somewhat surprised by his diverse resume, and he tries not to take himself too seriously.

Of his critically acclaimed work as a basketball analyst for CBS, ESPN and the ACC Network, Elmore says he is having a great time, but understands the uncertainty of the marketplace. "I'm a realist and TV will never be a career for me because I understand that one day your in vogue and the next you're passe," he says. "Still, it is one of the greatest experiences and ex-jock could have. I mean, where else can you sit in the best seat in the house and talk about the game like you're talking to your buddies?"

The commentating, the sports agentry, the business consulting — Elmore keeps it all in prospective.

"All I really want is to make a good living, see my family grow in number and spiritually in happiness, and be an contributing influence in my community," he says.

"Oh, and I'd also like to see us win a national championship."

BANNER TERP TOM McMILLEN

Tom McMillen Now

Road to Congress Began in College Park

Tom McMillen always figured he would have a title after his name. It would be abbreviated, all in capital letters. It would read Tom McMillen, M.D.; or Tom McMillen, D.D.S. or some other abbreviation for a medical professional.

Never as a young boy growing up in Mansfield, Pa. did he ever expect his office nameplate to read: Representative Tom McMillen (D-Md.).

Like many undergraduate students who come to a university with one idea of what their future will offer and graduate four years later on a completely different track, McMillen's life was transformed by his time at the University of Maryland.

Twenty-one years ago, McMillen entered the University in a pre-med curriculum. Although he was considered the nation's No. 1 high school basketball player as a senior — and as such graced the cover of Sports Illustrated — McMillen says he did not come to college to prep for a professional basketball career. "I always thought you had to have a balance between athletics and academics," he says. "I was always afraid to put all my eggs in one basket.

"There was a lot of pressure on me in school. Here I was coming in as a heralded athlete, and I was coming to a school that recruited some very, very good talent. I think (at first) I was driven as much by uncertainty as anything else. I didn't know how I would do, so I really focused in from the beginning."

Focused indeed. The uncertain McMillen excelled in the classroom and on the court from the very beginning. He posted a 4.0 grade point average his first semester, while leading the freshman basketball team to an undefeated season. The successes continued. In four college years, McMillen would become a three-time Academic All-American, a Rhodes Scholarship winner and the Maryland Class of '74 Valedictorian. Athletically, he led Maryland to the 1972 NIT Championship, being named Tournament MVP in the process, became the only player in school history to average more than 20 points a game for his career, and earned first team All-America honors his senior season.

"Going from high school to college and playing college sports and doing a college curriculum was like going 10 rungs up the ladder," McMillen says. "Lefty (Driesell) used to say 'the cream would rise to the top.' Everyone was good (at the college level), to be really good you had to rise to the top and that was the type of challenge I was looking for."

Jay McMillen, Tom's older brother and himself a Terp hoops star in the late 1960s, prepared his younger brother for the challenges that awaited him at college. "Jay was very much of an influence," says Tom of his brother who now is a physician in St. Joseph's, Mo. "Jay had the potential to go to the pros, and he really kind of messed around and didn't work as hard as he could of in college. He didn't want to see me do that, so he always acted like a second coach — both athletically and academically — which I thought was pretty good."

The combination of McMillen's academic and athletic successes propelled him into some lofty circles as an undergraduate. Maryland Senator Joe Tydings took a keen interest in the Terps star, arranging for an internship for McMillen in the U.S. Senate. McMillen called that first go-'round on Capitol Hill as one the greatest experiences of his youth. And there were other contacts that hastened his move toward public service.

"At Maryland, I was on the President's Council on Physical Fitness & Sports," McMillen remembers. "I went down to Washington and met with the President a couple of times — and that was heady stuff for a youngster. Then Maryland governor Marvin Mandel appointed me to statewide student commission, those were two factors that propelled me down the road (into politics)."

McMillen is quick to note two Maryland professors who had great influence on him. History professor Dr. Gordon Prang and chemistry professor Dr. Marjorie Gardner both tried to show the young McMillen the value of having so visible an individual devote his life to public service.

"One of the things that is so interesting for me is when running for public office, even though I am not from Maryland originally, my roots to my adopted state are planted at the University of Maryland," the Congressman says. "I think from a standpoint of some of the friendships I forged at Maryland, many of those people still are a part of my political base today."

McMillen was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives from Maryland's 4th Congressional district in 1986. After graduating from Maryland, completing his one-year Rhodes Scholarship at Oxford University in England and after playing for 11 seasons in the NBA, McMillen commands a certain respect on Capitol Hill as the federal government wrestles with no less than a half dozen proposed pieces of legislation regarding reform in intercollegiate athletics.

McMillen has authored the most far-reaching of those proposals, which at the core recommends a limited anti-trust exemption for the NCAA so that it controls the TV negotiating rights to all of its sports, and then distributes the revenue derived from the sale of those rights equally to every member institution. It's a plan, McMillen says, that would allow the NCAA a similar negotiating posture to that of the NBA or NFL.

McMillen insists that he is all for big time college athletics, especially given his background in a high visibility athletic program. The problems associated with intercollegiate athletics he says, is not with the student athletes, but with the commercial aspects that have become so dominant in major college sports.

"Schools are facing tremendous financial pressures to keep up with the Joneses, and what you end up with are insentives that I don't think necessarily help college sport," says McMillen, who is writing a book entitled Playing by the Rules — Sports and Ethics in America, which will outline his views on bringing sports back into better balance at all levels.

To his critics who suggest that federal legislators should not be discussing six different bills concerning college athletics and should devote their time to other issues, McMillen strongly disagrees. "Who else is suppose to look at this stuff," he says. "Someone has got to look at the state of our colleges and universities. The federal government makes a $25 million investment in higher education every year. I think they have every right to look at it."

"Our game plan under Coach Millikan was to make three to four passes each time down the court and work for good layups. But I had an advantage over the other guys - I could shoot anytime I wanted. I had the freedom to create shots whenever I got the chance."

Shue's Career in Hoops had its Pleasant Start at Maryland

The story of Gene Shue begins before Cole Field House was built. It begins before the Atlantic Coast Conference was formed. It begins before the emergence of the Maryland basketball program onto the level of prominence it has enjoyed for so many years.

Shue was invited to tryout for the Maryland basketball team, led by then Head Coach Bud Millikan. The invitation was exciting to Shue for he saw it as his big break. He was given the chance to be a building block of what was to become one of the premier programs in the country. During Millikan's 17-year tenure, the Terps won 243 games, their first ACC Championship and their place among the greatest stories in NCAA history.

"It was such a great feeling to be part of the early teams at Maryland," says Shue. "Basketball at Maryland was Bud Millikan and it was coming alive. It was very exciting to be a part of that."

Shue was described as a soft spoken, bashful, unheralded player upon his graduation from Towson Catholic High School in Baltimore. He wanted to attend college and jumped at Millikan's invitation to attend Maryland. His scholarship called for a part-time job to help him through school. For Shue that was alright; he wanted a chance to go to school and he wanted to play basketball.

Upon his arrival at Maryland, "home" took on a significant meaning for Shue. Before Cole Field House was opened in 1955, the Terps played their home games in Ritchie Coliseum. Located along U.S. Route 1, the main North-South Corridor on the Eastern Seaboard of the United States, Ritchie was a cozy gymnasium that held about 3,500 fans. The gymnasium consistently overflowed with fans as Maryland entertained teams with local flair. During Shue's three-year varsity career, George Washington, Georgetown and Washington & Lee helped write the early history of Maryland basketball.

More than a court on which Shue played his home games, Ritchie Coliseum served as his campus dormitory. And the job he agreed to accept as part of his scholarship was to clean and sweep the basketball floor making it suitable for practice and games.

"Ritchie Coliseum was a great place to play and a great place to live," remembers Shue. "We were there all the time, we would shoot and play during every spare moment. In every sense of the word, I was a gym rat."

Giving Shue the proverbial "key to the gym" was probably one of the best things Millikan did while he was coach. By playing and shooting whenever he could, Shue became one of the best shooters in Maryland history, as evidenced by his career statistics.

Over his three-year career, he scored 2015 points for an 18.7 points per game average. He was the first Terp to score over 2,000 points and was the career scoring leader until Tom McMillen surpassed him 20 years after his career ended. As a senior he averaged 21.8 points per game. He still holds the third best single game scoring total in school history, hitting for 40 points during the 1953 Southern Conference Tournament.

"Our game plan under Coach Millikan was to make three to four passes each time down the court and work for good layups," he said. "But I had an advantage over the other guys - I could shoot anytime I wanted. I had the freedom to create shots whenever I got the chance."

As a senior, Shue led Maryland to its best-ever record of 23-7. It marked the first time a Terp basketball team had won more than 20 games and Shue was the main reason. His 21.8 points per game average over 30 games accounted for exactly one half of the total team points that season.

For his efforts, he earned Converse and Helms Foundation All-America honors. He became only the second Terp in history to earn All-American honors for his feats on the basketball court, the first being Louis "Bosey" Berger in 1931 and 1932.

Chuck Taylor, after whom the famous canvas basketball shoe is named and was in charge of picking the All-American team for Converse, had this to say about Shue: "In addition to being a wonderful shot, he is a great dribbler. I've never seen a guy who left so many players standing flatfooted while he dribbles around them. He also plays well on defense."

Shue also left his mark on the legendary coaches of the old Southern and present Atlantic Coast Conferences. Said Everett Case, Head Basketball Coach at N.C. State College: "Shue is one of the greatest shooters I have ever seen. I would say he is one of the best all-around shooters in the game today." Said Bones McKinney, Assistant Coach at Wake Forest College: "If Shue isn't All-America, I've never seen one. His 40 point performance against us was the greatest one-man basketball performance I have ever seen. That boy is great."

Following his stellar college career, Shue was drafted in the first round (the third overall selection) by the Philadelphia Warriors of the NBA. He was twice named to the NBA's All-Pro team and was selected to play on the NBA All-Star Team. Throughout his 10-year playing career, he averaged 14.4 points per game.

He is the fourth winningest coach in the history of the NBA. He coached 23 season and amassed a career record of 784-861. He is one of only four coaches in NBA history to have been named "Coach-of-the-Year" twice. His coaching stops took him to Baltimore (1966-73), Philadelphia (1974-78), San Diego (78-80) and Washington (1981-85).

Along the way, he has written some of the best turnaround stories in NBA history. Those successes include taking the Baltimore Bullets from the worst record in the league to the best in the short span of two years. He also inherited a Philadelphia 76er team with the worst ever NBA record and took them to the NBA Finals in only four years.

The Gene Shue story continues to be written. Still considered to have one of the great minds in basketball today, Shue is the General Manager of the Philadelphia 76ers. He was an integral part of the most important growth period in the history of Maryland basketball. Now, as he watches and evaluates the current Terp talent for the professional ranks, he has his eye on the program once again.

"I have so many good memories of being at the University of Maryland and playing basketball," he said. "I am so happy for the program to watch exciting things happen in these terrific times."

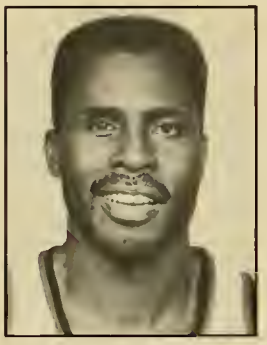
BANNER TERP BUCK WILLIAMS



Buck Williams Now

"I've been overwhelmed, and most of my friends would be surprised to hear that. I just came up from Rocky Mount, N.C., and into a system where I had no expectations to develop into the type of player I am. But I think it's something that I worked hard to attain and I've been fortunate to have been blessed with this."

Buck Williams Then

From Rocky Mount to the NBA — A Wonderful Ride

Each run from the locker room, through the tunnel and onto the floor of Cole Field House was unforgettable for Charles "Buck" Williams. And at the time, he had little idea just how far those runs would lead him.

Eleven years later, in the twilight of a successful career in the National Basketball Association, Williams still has trouble believing all that has happened to him: a spot on the 1980 Olympic team, All-America honors in 1981, the 1981-82 NBA Rookie of the Year award, twice NBA All-Defensive Team, and 1990 league leader in field goal percentage.

"I've been overwhelmed, and most of my friends would be surprised to hear that, " said Williams, Maryland's third all-time leading rebounder who now plays for the Portland Trailblazers. "I just came up from Rocky Mount, N.C., and into a system where I had no expectations to develop into the type of player I am. But I think it's something that I worked hard to attain and I've been fortunate to have been blessed with this."

Blessed with a reputation as leader on the court, a by-product of his tireless effort on the court that has won him admiration since his playing days with the Terrapins.

The leadership skill "was something gradual that developed as I matured through the years," Williams said. "Albert King was the leader on our team, and I was just one of 12 men."

"He has great leadership qualities," said Greg Manning, a former Terp teammate of Williams and the current color analyst on Maryland basketball radio broadcasts. "He played extremely hard all the time. A lot of that leadership comes without him having to say anything; he's been that type of player in the NBA. He's a tremendous worker and a relentless rebounder."

His NBA numbers are phenomenal: 12,487 career points, a 15.7 per game average; 9,127 career rebounds, an 11.5 average; a career field goal percentage of .553. While he's known for his rebounding, clearly his game is among the most complete in the league.

Though he said he never imagined compiling that kind of career when he first came to Maryland, he got hooked on the pro dream following his sophomore season, when he made the 1980 Olympic team. Though a boycott of the Moscow Olympics prevented his shot at a gold medal, the team played a successful series of games against NBA all-star teams.

"Missing out on the Olympics was frustrating," he said, "but it was a good situation for me. We were playing against NBA players, and that was a better experience for me than playing in the Olympics might have been. I got a chance to see what I had to work on."

After his junior season, during which he averaged 11.7 rebounds, 15.6 points, and earned All-America honors, Williams decided to enter the NBA draft. He was made the third pick overall by the New Jersey Nets.

"I think the timing was perfect," said Williams, who eventually earned an undergraduate studies degree from Maryland in 1985. "I wanted to continue my education, but it was a decision made in my best interest. It was no reflection on the University or on Coach (Lefty) Driesell, but I just felt that after everything was said and done, it was a chance to go as a top five player. As a professional player you rarely get that opportunity and it was one I couldn't turn down."

Manning says what he admires most about Williams is that "he's still playing. That incredible in itself. He's had a great career, and now he's finally with a team that can contend for a championship."

Prior to the 1989-90 season, Williams was traded to Portland for center Sam Bowie and a number one draft choice. He proceeded to lead the Trailblazers to the NBA Finals, where they were defeated by Detroit. It was his first chance at an NBA crown, and the spectacular career of Buck Williams may not be complete until he gets another one. A successful one.

"It's the only goal left," said Williams, who lives in Portland with his wife Mimi and their 2 1/2-year-old son, Julien. "I've already received every honor that can be bestowed on a pro basketball player ... It's the one thing left to obtain."

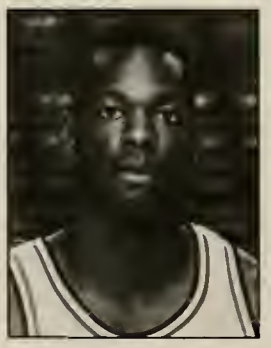
ALL AMERICANS

LOUIS "BOSEY" BERGER

6-2, Forward
Played: 1929-32
All-American: 1931 & 1932

ON BERGER — Considered one of the greatest athletes in the history of Maryland athletics ... a two-time All-America selection — an amazing feat, considering Maryland was an agricultural school at the time and not thought of among the athletics giants ... considered one of the best all-around players of his time ... led Maryland to the 1931 Southern Conference Championship, averaging a Conference-high 19.1 points per game over the nine-game conference season ... also played baseball, and signed a contract with the Cleveland Indians upon graduation ... played in the major leagues for six years, with Cleveland, Chicago and Boston ... left baseball with a .236 lifetime average.

LEN BIAS



6-8, Forward
Landover, Maryland
Played: 1982-86
All-American: 1986

ON BIAS — Unanimous choice on almost every All-America squad following his senior season ... had been a third team selection in 1985 ... only Terrapin ever to be named ACC Player of the Year twice (in 1985 and 1986) ... Bias is the Terrapins all-time leading scorer with 2,146 career points ... he owns the school's top two single season scoring marks — his 743-point total in 1985-86 is No. 1 all time and his 701-point total in 1984-85 is No. 2 ... he led the ACC in scoring two straight years ... his best single game scoring performance, 41 points at Duke, ranks as the second-best single game mark in school history and the top performance by a Terp in a road game ... he is No. 8 on the Maryland career rebounding list with 745 total boards ... he also is No. 5 on the school's career block shot list ... he was a No. 2 pick overall in the 1986 National Basketball Association college draft, taken by the Boston Celtics.

LEN ELMORE

6-9, Center
Springfield Gardens, New York
Played: 1971-74
All-American: 1974

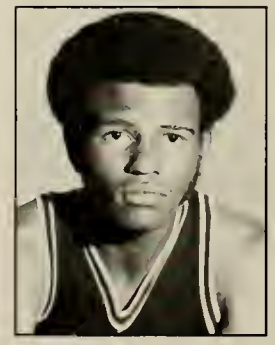
ON ELMORE — The best rebounder in Maryland history and one of the nation's best ever ... rebounding prowess earned him a spot on most 1974 All-America squads along with offensive-minded teammates Tom McMillen and John Lucas ... is the only player in Maryland history with more than 1,000 career rebounds (1,053) ... his 1973-74 season average of 14.7 boards a game is the school's single-season record ... his career rebounding average of 12.2 a game also is the Maryland record in that category ... he owns six of the top 10 single game rebounding marks in school history and two of the top three season totals ... his 412 rebounds in the 1973-74 season is the school record ... was a three-time All-ACC performer and the team's Most Valuable Player in 1972-73 and its Outstanding Senior in 1973-74 ... was drafted in the first round of the 1974 NBA college draft by the Washington Bullets, but chose to sign with the Indiana Pacers of the American Basketball Association ... spent 10 seasons in the ABA and NBA with the Pacers, Milwaukee Bucks, New Jersey Nets and New York Knickerbockers ... upon leaving professional basketball, he enrolled in Harvard Law School and graduated in 1987 ... he is the first former professional player to graduate from the prestigious law school.

ALBERT KING

6-7, Forward
Brooklyn, New York
Played: 1977-81
All-American: 1981

ON KING — One of the most prolific scorers in school history, King is one of only a handful of Maryland players to average in double figures in each of his four seasons ... ranks as the No. 2 all-time Maryland scorer with 2,058 points, only 88 points behind fellow All-American Len Bias on the school's charts ... his career scoring average of 17.4 points per game is the fifth best in school history ... his 38 points in an ACC Tournament game against Clemson is the fourth best individual game performance on the Maryland books ... shared the 1980-81 team Most Valuable Player Award with Buck Williams after winning the award outright in 1979-80 ... was the ACC Player of the Year in 1979-80 and a first team All-ACC pick again in 1980-81 ... came to Maryland generally regarded as the nation's top high school recruit, having averaged 38.6 points and 22 rebounds a game as a prep senior ... certainly lived up to that billing at Maryland and went on to star in the NBA ... picked in the first round — 12th selection overall — by the New Jersey Nets in the 1981 NBA college draft ... his older brother, Bernard, also is a NBA star and former league scoring champion and is a member of the Washington Bullets.

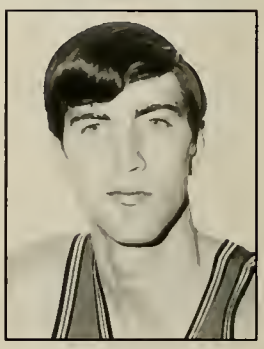
JOHN LUCAS



6-4, Guard
Durham, North Carolina
Played: 1972-76
All-American: 1975 & 1976

ON LUCAS — Generally regarded as the greatest guard in the history of the Terrapins program ... a two-time All-America selection and three-time All-ACC first team performer — the only Maryland player ever to earn that conference distinction ... is the No. 3 scorer in Maryland history with 2,015 points ... his 564 points in the 1973-74 season is the ninth-best single season output in school history ... he is No. 2 on the school's career assists list ... in the years when Lucas manned the point guard position, the Terrapins enjoyed their best seasons in terms of national finishes ... the Terps finished No. 8 (1973), No. 4 (1974) and No. 5 (1974) in the final Associated Press polls in those three seasons with Lucas at the helm ... was also a collegiate star in tennis, a sport in which he was a two-time ACC singles champion and once earned that title in doubles ... was the No. 1 pick in the 1976 NBA college draft, taken by the Houston Rockets.

TOM McMILLEN



6-11, Forward
Mansfield, Pennsylvania
Played: 1971-74
All-America: 1974
Academic All-American: 1972, 1973, & 1974

ON McMILLEN — The quintessential team leader — both on and off the court ... averaged 20.5 points and 9.8 rebounds during his three-year career, while setting an example off the court by being selected all three years to the prestigious Academic All-America team ... one of only three players to average more than 20 points per game in successive seasons and the only player in school history with a career scoring average above 20 points per game ... he owns two of the top seven single season scoring marks and four times in his career scored more than 30 points in a ballgame ... is the No. 5 career scorer in school history and the top scorer among players who were only eligible for three years (freshmen were not eligible for the varsity during McMillen's career) ... led Maryland to the 1972 National Inviational Tournament Championship, earning Most Valuable Player of the tournament ... went on to play for the United States in the 1972 Olympic Games, where the USA earned the silver medal in its controversial game with the Soviets ... played in the NBA for 11 seasons with Buffalo, Atlanta, New York and Washington, but put is professional career on a one-year hold in order to fulfill his Rhodes Scholarship obligation by studying for a year at Oxford ... was elected in 1986 to the U.S. Congress from Maryland's 4th District.

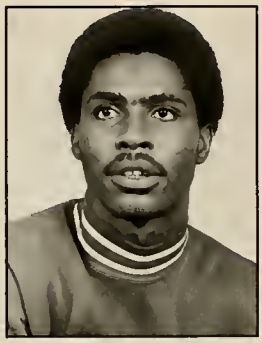
GENE SHUE

6-2, Forward
Baltimore, Maryland
Played: 1951-54
All-American: 1954

ON SHUE — Was the Terp's first high-profile basketball star ... earned Converse and Helms Foundation All-America honors as a senior, when he averaged 21.8 points a game ... owns the third best single game scoring total in school history, hitting for 40 points against Wake Forest in the 1959 Southern Conference Tournament ... was selected as the Most Valuable Player of the tournament ... was the school record holder in career scoring until 1974 when fellow All-American Tom McMillen assumed that role ... still holds the No. 9 slot on the team's career list ... enjoyed a successful career as a head coach in the NBA with Washington Bullets, Philadelphia 76ers and Los Angeles Clippers. He now is the general manager of the 76ers.

CHARLES "BUCK" WILLIAMS



6-8, Center/Forward
Rocky Mount, North Carolina
Played: 1978-81
All-American: 1981

ON WILLIAMS — An outstanding scorer and extraordinary rebounder, Williams earned All-America honors after a junior season — his last in college ball — in which he averaged 15.6 points and 11.7 rebounds a game ... he is the No. 3 rebounder in Maryland history with 928 career boards, third only to fellow All-American Len Elmore and Derrick Lewis ... his career average of 10.9 rebounds per game is the second best average in school history ... he was an equally adept shooter, averaging in double figures each of his three seasons and registering the school's best-ever field goal percentage ... his 61.5 percent prowess from the field is the school career record ... led the ACC in rebounding as a freshman in 1978-79, was third in 1979-80 and was second in 1980-81 ... was a member of the 1980 United States Olympic Team that did not compete in the Moscow Games ... applied for hardship placement in the NBA college draft and was selected as the No. 3 player overall by the New Jersey Nets ... he now plays for the Portland Trailblazers.

COACHING ALUMS

If Penn State is known for its linebackers, and Southern Cal for its tailbacks, Maryland surely is known for its basketball coaches. Consider that the coaches listed below all claim mail from the Maryland Alumni Office.

Find the Maryland coaches: There are four in this picture. Bud Millikan (standing far left) and Frank Fellows (standing far right) both were Maryland coaches, while Joe Harrington (#50) was a Terp assistant and Gary Williams (#14) now runs the show.

Dr. Tom Davis

Ironically, coaches Fletcher and Szoke did not play basketball at Maryland, but became highly successful collegiate coaches. Davis did not play at Maryland either, but coached here while earning his doctoral degree. Coaches Harrington, Truax and Williams all played and lettered for Maryland.

JP SPORTS/MARYLAND RADIO NETWORK

The JP Sports/Maryland Radio Network brings Terrapin fans the most comprehensive coverage of Maryland basketball via a 18-station network covering three states.

The flagship station of the network is Baltimore's WBAL (1100 AM), which produces the broadcasts and feeds the signal to Terp fans across the state of Maryland, and into Pennsylvania, West Virginia and the District of Columbia. In Washington D.C., WRC (980 AM) joins the Maryland basketball family this season as the Terps carrier in the nation's capital.

Each game, play-by-play announcer Johnny Holliday and color commentator Greg Manning set up the action with an informative pre-game show, provide special analysis during halftime and post-game shows and bring complete tip-off-to-final buzzer game action. Head Coach Gary Williams is heard every game in a taped pre-game show and his post-game comments are aired live immediately after each game.

Johnny Holliday

Play-by-Play

A nationally-recognized radio personality, Johnny Holliday begins his 13th season as the "Voice of the Terrapins." His varied professional resume includes ABC Radio work at the 1988 Summer and Winter Olympics, play-by-play stints on the ACC Basketball Television Network and play-by-play man for Maryland football broadcasts, among many other projects.

Earlier this year, Holliday joined WRC-Radio in Washington, D.C. as its first-ever sports director. He provides six morning drive-time sports reports to an ever-growing audience. As he has for the last nine years, Holliday continues to broadcast a nationwide afternoon sports report daily on the ABC Radio Network.

In addition to his news and play-by-play work, Holliday serves as the host for the Maryland Coaches Corner, Gary Williams' weekly half-hour television show, which airs on Home Team Sports. In fact, Holliday is found on a variety of HTS broadcasts.

Holliday and is wife, Mary Clare, are the parents of three daughters, Kellie, 31, Tracie, 28, and Moira, 13, a junior high school basketball star and devoted Terps fan.

Greg Manning

Color Commentary

Greg Manning performs in two capacities in Cole Field House. During basketball season, he joins Johnny Holliday on the Maryland Radio Network broadcasts. He is in his fifth year as the Terps hoops analyst.

When not courtside at Cole he occupies an office in the Field House as the director of the University's M-Club, the lettermen's association. Manning accepted the M-Club post last summer and now seems to be in constant motion as he develops the M-Club into a powerful fundraising source for the athletic department.

A Maryland graduate, Class of '81, Manning was the quintessential student-athlete. On the court, he ranked among the Atlantic Coast Conference most productive point guards, earning All-Tournament honors at the 1980 ACC Tournament while leading Maryland to the championship game. A four-year starter, Manning led three different Terp teams to post-season play.

Off the court, Manning was in 1981 an Academic All-American and a three-time Academic All-ACC pick, who earned a NCAA Post-Graduate Scholarship upon graduation.

Manning and his wife, Cathy, have a son, Greg, Jr., 6, and a daughter, Courtney, 2.
